Rampaging Fire Battled by 500

MONROVIA, Calif. (AP)—Firefighters massed today to halt the spread of flames which have destroyed eight homes and blackened 800 acres of brush surrounding this foothill city.

Five hundred men battled all night against the blaze, started by three children playing with matches.

Officials estimated 200 families were evacuated from their threatened homes in the northern section of the Monrovia-Duarte area about 20 miles east of Los Angeles.

Beirut Rioters Put Clock Back

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The Lebanese Army opened fire on mobs demonstrating against the new government Thursday night and today in action that turned the page back to the bloodiest days of Lebanon's summer rebellion.

At least three civilians were reported killed and 12 wounded in the past 24 hours of violence. The wounded included a woman.

U.S. forces were not involved in the bitter street clashes.

The Lebanese army fired on the demonstrating crowds under orders to crush efforts of supporters of ex-president Camille Chamoun to keep Beirut in turmoil.

Supporters of the old regime were angry at the appointment of former rebel leader Rashid Karami as premier and his refusal to include pro-Chamoun ministers in his new cabinet.

Thursday night 1,000 of them, led by the pro-Chamoun Christian Phalangists, marched on the defence ministry. They ignored repeated commands to halt the march and the soldiers opened fire.

That clash killed three civilians and wounded five, it was reported.

This morning the demonstrators were back on the street, this time some 4,000 strong.

An army patrol backed by two armored cars and two tanks tried to tear down a Phalangist barricade. The demonstrators fought back and again the army opened fire.

At least seven persons were reported wounded in this action.

The mob, led by stick-swinging women, heaped burning rubble astride the main road leading into Beirut from the north in an attempt to cut off traffic into the capital and enforce a general strike.

Slayer on Loose

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An insane slayer who vowed death to his victims' family escaped Thursday night from Arizona State Hospital. Police roadblocks were set up in the Tucson area around homes of persons threatened by Paul Whalen after the 1957 slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Huff.

Bloodiest Day On Cyprus In 3 Years

NICOSIA (Reuters)—One British woman was killed, another was injured and three soldiers were hurt today as violence on Cyprus took its ugliest turn since the three-year emergency began.

The women, both wives of British servicemen, were shot by terrorist gunmen in Famagusta. An immediate curfew was clamped on the eastern port.

The three soldiers were wounded in two bombing incidents in Limassol, southern Cyprus. A curfew was immediately placed on all Greek Cypriot residents between aged 16 and 26.

The woman was the second civilian killed by terrorists within 24 hours. A radio engineer was shot to death Thursday as he walked down a shopping street in Larnaca.

ATHENS (Reuters)—Greek students shouting "Quit NATO" and "Give arms to EOKA" were dispersed by police today as they tried to stage a banned rally.

There were minor clashes but no casualties.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord Jesus, as the Father lives in Thee and Thou in Him, do Thou live in me and I in Thee. As I go about the duties of the common day, keep ever before my mind the certainty of God, the reality of His presence, the sovereignty of His will, and the adequacy of His salvation. So may I walk in the light as Thou art in the light, and so may my life in time be a preparation for eternity. Amen.

Wengren To Start By 1960

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Reporter

DAWSON CREEK — Premier Bennett capped his victory march into the Peace River country Thursday with the announcement of the multi-million-dollar Wenner-Gren development of the Rocky Mountain Trench definitely will go ahead.

He said "this tremendous project—a lake nearly 300 miles long on the Peace River system, which has a power potential of 4,000,000 horsepower—will create a great new prosperity in this country—a great future and a new era of wealth."

Part of a plan by Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, the hydro project will attract industry here.

LONGEST MAN-MADE

It would mean creation of the longest man-made lake in the world, twice that of the man-made lake at the Grand Coulee dam in Washington.

Past estimates of the cost of developing the lake have been in the neighborhood of $400,000,000 and $600,000,000.

The proposed power development was first announced in the legislature two sessions ago.

Premier Bennett said designing for the power project will begin next year, and actual construction will start in 1960.

Details on anticipated pulp mill and railway construction are not yet available, the premier said.

But it was reliably learned the dam project will include two actual water storage systems, one near Hudson Hope (70 miles north of the PGE divisional point Chetwynd).

World School For Canada?

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Canada should embark immediately on a large-scale program to educate thousands of youths from underdeveloped countries in Canada, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell told the Canadian Club Thursday night.

By expanding universities and training the required professors, he said, Canada would provide herself with the facilities she will need in 10 to 20 years for the bulging enrolments that will result from the post-war booming birthrate.

Bennett on Suit: 'It's Up to Paper'

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett said here Thursday he may go ahead with a threatened $1,000,000 suit against the Vancouver Province.

He commented on the matter on his arrival here aboard the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's inaugural run from North Vancouver to Fort St. John and Dawson Creek.

The premier first threatened the newspaper with court action Tuesday after a story from Victoria suggested the government proposed to wipe out its direct debt by transferring the original borrowings for the B.C.

'NEVER OPEN SCHOOLS' IF THEY'RE INTEGRATED

GOVERNOR FAUBUS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)

—Governor Oval E. Faubus said today "I will never open the public schools as integrated institutions."

The governor made the comment after releasing a statement at a press conference.

He opened by reading a prepared statement which contained the sentence, "the only question is whether the Little Rock public school facilities can be used by the Little Rock private school corporation, or not used at all."

Reporters asked him to clarify this and Faubus said he would never open the public schools on an integrated basis.

3-YEAR CONTRACT SIGNED

GM Still Closed Over Local Issues

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors and the United Auto Workers reached agreement on a three-year master contract Thursday night, but GM's automotive empire remained shut down today by a strike of its 250,000 UAW members.

De Gaulle In New Plea To Algerians

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (AP)—Premier de Gaulle today appealed to Algeria's rebels to halt their bloody insurrection and promised Algerians a new and better life—economically and politically.

But close ties with France must remain, he said.

De Gaulle charted a five-year program for improving the living and working conditions of the 8,000,000 Moslems in Algeria. He promised them more and better jobs and housing, land distribution and greater educational opportunities.

He said elections will be held in Algeria within two months under the same conditions as in Metropolitan France. And he declared: "At least two-thirds of these representatives must be Moslems."

UAW President Walter P. Reuther hailed the new national agreement as "good for the nation, good for the UAW and good for GM," but he added that GM workers at 126 plants across the country were authorized to remain on strike to back up local demands.

A company-wide walkout against GM preceded the new pact by 12 hours. Before that, there had been a rash of wildcat strikes.

Both Reuther and GM Vice-President Louis G. Seaton expressed hope that local grievances would be settled quickly so GM could get into full production of 1959 cars and trucks.

The UAW reached agreement with Ford Sept. 17 and with Chrysler Wednesday.

The new agreements give auto workers wage increases of 24 to 30 cents an hour during the next three years. Pensions are increased; severance pay provided for those whose jobs are moved or abolished, and layoff pay increased.

General Motors' average hourly wage is the highest in the industry—$2.62 compared with $2.52 at Ford and $2.33 at Chrysler. The latter company said its wage scale is lower because it hasn't as many skilled-labor classifications as the other two firms.

Ike Has Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower enters Walter Reed Army Hospital here this afternoon for an annual physical checkup.

Both teams travelled by air, but on'y th' Braves deserved th' fare.

At Shawnigan, th' fire's out but so is school.

Wonder what year they'll begin t' retrench in th' Rocky Mountain Trench.

Fire Destroys School Block At Shawnigan

Boys, Masters Assist Firemen

By DON INGHAM

Raging flames early today destroyed a three-storey $100,000 classroom block at Shawnigan Lake School for Boys.

There never was hope of saving the building. Efforts of Shawnigan Volunteer Fire Department, school masters, and senior students were devoted to saving other buildings near by.

One of these was the school rifle range. At one time three of the 15 masters of the school were playing a hose on the fire from the roof of the building, and were standing directly over a large quantity of live ammunition.

Terrific heat from the blazing frame and stucco building kept firefighters from approaching closer than 50 feet. Flames leaped hundreds of feet in the air, and were seen miles from the school, situated at the north end of the lake about a mile from the village of Shawnigan Lake.

Most difficult job was saving the school hobby shop, a large building with one corner a bare 20 feet from the roaring flames. Damage was limited to scorched areas on the roof, broken windows, and a few charred window frames on the side nearest the fire.

The alarm was turned in at midnight by E. R. Larsen, 33, headmaster at the school since July, and Rev. R. F. Stephenson, school chaplain.

"I was first attracted by a red glow in the sky, plainly visible from my house," Mr. Larsen said. "I called the Shawnigan fire department, and set off the school alarms."

Junior Boys Looked in Shifts

Fire Chief Eric Gibson and his 12-man volunteer crew said he knew on arrival at the fire that there was no hope of saving the building.

"Otherwise we had no problems," he said. "We drew water from the lake, and senior boys carried material from the hobby shop. Nothing was saved from the burning building, but there were no lives in danger. We don't yet know the cause."

Destroyed were desks, chairs, text books, and physics and chemistry laboratory equipment, but the loss was fully covered by insurance, and plans for rebuilding will be launched almost immediately.

He said another site has been chosen tentatively on the 150-acre school property.

The school chapel, on a hill overlooking the classroom building, was brushed by the flames, but damage appeared limited to badly scorched doors. Morning devotions were held in the chapel as usual, sharp at 9 a.m.

Mr. Larsen, who resigned his post as executive assistant to Defence Minister George Pearkes to take the position of headmaster, praised volunteer firemen and his own staff and students at a special assembly at the school this morning after chapel.

"I must compliment you all on the superb way you handled yourselves," he said. "The staff

U.S. Controls Thor in U.K.

LONDON (UPI)—The United States has claimed complete control over Thor missiles sent to British bases and not just over their atomic warheads, official sources disclosed today.

It had been assumed previously that American control would be limited to the atomic warheads of missiles sent here under a mutual assistance agreement.

The U.S. stand now makes it clear that Britain will not be in a position to use the missiles without specific American consent.

WINNERS AS GLUM AS LOSERS

No War Dance for Braves

NEW YORK (CP)—The winners seemed just as glum as the losers today as New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves prepared for the third game of the World Series.

The Braves—with a 2-0 clutch on the series over the Yankees—arrived in town by plane Thursday night but showed no sign of rejoicing.

Perhaps the Milwaukee heroes were a little put off because nobody met them at the airport except reporters and photographers and a few autograph seekers.

Manager Fred Haney, however, showed cheer, beaming as he said of Thursday's 13-5 Milwaukee win:

DON LARSEN

... can he stop Braves?

"We can't get enough runs to suit me."

He later named Bob Rush, 32-year-old righthanded pitcher, to pitch Saturday's third World Series game against Yankees' Don Larsen of perfect game fame.

Rush had a 10-6 won-lost record in regular season play. This will be his first World Series appearance although he has been in the majors 11 years. He started 20 games this year and completed five.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel said his men aren't discouraged and he showed signs of chewing the ear off a questioner who suggested the situation was "desperate."

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

CANADA WARNED

Political, Economic Satellite

TORONTO (CP)—An executive of A. V. Roe Canada Limited today warned Canada will become a political and economic satellite of the United States if it doesn't develop its own defence system.

W. R. McLachlan, vice-president in charge of administration and co-ordination, called for more basic research in a speech to the Ontario government's annual industrial development conference.

"Let's face it," he said, "in the days ahead Canada will have to undertake projects more costly and more advanced or abdicate her present position as a respected partner in the free world."

"The alternative is to turn the job of national security over to someone else. If we do that, we can forget all our wonderful dreams and hopes of Canadian nationhood. We will become a mere political and economic satellite of our friends to the south."

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet Saturday 1.30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a work bee and flowering shrub survey at the Beaver Lake tree plot.

Senior members of the group will meet Sunday 10.30 p.m. at the same place for an expedition to the Highland district.

The detective, Alfred Spinoza, had been tipped about a party in a 12th-floor suite of a West 100th Street hotel. He went there, a trombone came under his arm, and got inside.

Among those present, he said, were two men and a girl stripteaser. The trio was charged with possession of marijuana. Others at the affair were released.

Police said marijuana users value the wine-impregnated weed for its increased kick. Devotees call it "instant marijuana."

LONDON—The hula hoop has whizzed across the Atlantic. Some newspapers Thursday devoted whole pages to instructions on hoop manoeuvrability. Television stations juggled programs to give demonstrations.

ROCHESTER, Minn.—Chain smoker Harold W. Scott listened for six minutes Thursday while a London hypnotist tried to talk him out of the cigarette habit by transatlantic telephone.

Five seconds after hanging up Scott was dragging on a cigarette. Scott says he smokes three packs a day. He plans to call hypnotist Henry Blythe in England again.

MIDDLESBOROUGH, Eng.—A mysterious benefactor in overalls showed up at a Middlesborough church today and gave away a bagful of money for the second straight day.

The mystery donor called at the Anglican convent of the Holy Rood Thursday and handed the mother superior a bag containing £1,050.

Today, he cycled up to the All Saints Church in overalls and handed Rev. W. Walker a brown paper parcel containing $550.

FIRE

 was up all night, and the senior boys would have been if we had let them.

"I also want to congratulate the junior boys on their discipline in staying in their rooms while the fire was burning." (He said later the juniors' total enrolment at the school is 172—remained in their dormitories in another building and went in shifts to windows overlooking the fire.)

He listed rooms in the various other buildings at the school that will be used as classrooms, saying "they are nearly ready for you."

A staff member was in Victoria at 9 a.m. today with a van to pick up replacements for the lost textbooks. Mr. Larsen said 50 desks ordered several weeks ago should be here shortly, and D. Mason Hurley of Shawnigan Beach Hotel offered the school tables and chairs to assist in furnishing classrooms.

"We shall build a better block on a better site, and will continue to work to make our school the best in the country," he told the assembly. "The loss of the building will cause us difficulty, but we will manage if we all co-operate."

TIDYING UP

Considerable work must be done in tidying the grounds. Dead charred embers cover the ground hundreds of feet from the smouldering remains of the burning building, and machine tools carried from the threatened hobby shop had been hastily dropped on the quadrangle lawn.

Mr. Larsen said the school's own fire brigade of students went to work just as volunteers arrived, and pitched in immediately under direction of Fire Chief Gibson.

It burned fiercely for more than two hours, and firemen did not consider it safe to leave until 3.30 a.m.

BUSY TIME

The fire meant a busy night for the Shawnigan firemen, since they had fought a bush fire on the Shawnigan-Cobble Hill Road from 6 to 10.30 p.m. Thursday, and had barely finished cleaning and sorting equipment when they got the second alarm.

The fire came closely on the heels of the blaze that levelled Malahat Chalet Tuesday morning, and the Milnes Landing High School fire of Sept. 18. School buildings were started in 1926, after the school had become established in more humble quarters at Shawnigan Lake. It is operated as a non-profit-making organization.

WENGER

 and the other near Finlay Forks.

A cheer went up as Premier Bennett made the announcement on a flag-draped platform here where about 1,000 people had assembled to welcome the PGE inaugural trip to the Peace.

"Here in the Peace River you have all the energies that make a nation great—great forestry and great farmlands—from this day forward you will have a new era."

Later, he told reporters: "The power development in the Trench will help Alberta as well." He said power could be sold for development of the Canadian North.

COST $10,000,000

The surveys carried out by Wenner-Gren have been rapid, and carried out at a cost of up to $10,000,000.

"Contrary to public opinion," the premier said, the Wenner-Gren interests have no concession on mineral development in the Trench area.

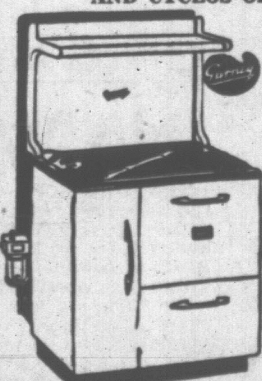

He said the firm is proceeding with surveys which are studying a possible railway to the Yukon through the Trench. He said it could either be a monorail or the usual type.

Fire Fells 20

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A three alarm fire in the Hyde Building in downtown Spokane Thursday night felled 19 firefighters and a 71-year-old woman elevator operator. None were badly affected. The fire caused extensive damage to stores and offices located in the building.

Prices Up To Record ... Again

Food, Services
 Hike Living Cost

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs rose to a new high during August with the consumer price index climbing by two-fifths of a point to a record 125.6 on Sept. 1 from 125.2 on August 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The second consecutive monthly rise resulted mainly from higher prices for streetcar and bus fares, hospital rates in Ontario and Quebec, price boosts for gasoline, eggs, bread, citrus fruits, canned, juices, along with rents and home ownership costs.

These offset some declines such as those in clothing, 1958 passenger cars, meats, apples and fresh vegetables.

The prices yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, now stood at 2.3 points higher than a year previous.

While living costs have been rising, average wages paid also appear to have increased, though they may not have kept pace with the rise in costs.

WAGES DIP

Average wages in industrial plants have increased from $66.35 a week Jan. 1 to $70.76 June 1, though there was a slight dip from this high to $70.63 July 1.

While most parts of the consumer price index showed gains during August, the largest was in the miscellaneous column, entitled other commodities and services, which rose to a record 131.5 Sept. 1 from 130.6 Aug. 1.

The food column also edged ahead by three-tenths of a point to a near-record 122.9.

Also up three-tenths to a record 139.4 was the shelter column, reflecting higher costs for rents and prices for new homes.

New Transport Chief Appointed

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of S. Bruce Smith of Edmonton to succeed Clarence D. Shepard of Winnipeg as chief commissioner of the board of transport commissioners was announced today by Transport Minister Hees.

Mr. Shepard is resigning, effective next Jan. 1, to enter private business. He is 44. Mr. Smith is 59.

Ancient Cedar Hill School To Revive Own PTA Group

One of the oldest schools in the Victoria area will have its own PTA organization again after more than 10 years of amalgamation.

Cedar Hill PTA and the Doncaster School group were merged in 1947 after the formation of the latter school and the two groups worked together until dissolution late last month.

Cedar Hill School was first established as a church school by St. Luke's Anglican Church in 1860 but was soon emancipated and became a public school.

History of the PTA dates back to 1927 when a group of parents combined to obtain equipment for sports, music, and the library.

The group was affiliated with the Parent-Teacher Federation in 1929 to form the first Cedar Hill PTA.

A Heintzman piano, one of the first pieces of equipment purchased through the group, is still in use at the school in the grade three classroom.

Original charter president in 1929, Mrs. Harry Silver will officiate at installation of officers at a general meeting Monday, 8 p.m., at the school.

MIGs Down Cargo Plane On Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Four Communist MIGs attacked a Nationalist C-46 plane today while it was air-dropping supplies to Quemoy Island, the defense ministry announced. The supply plane crash-landed on Big Quemoy.

On the political front the U.S. embassy issued a statement today saying there had been no major change in U.S. Far Eastern policy. A Nationalist spokesman insisted the Quemoy was America's first line of defence in the Pacific.

The embassy statement was issued shortly after three of Nationalist China's largest newspapers attacked proposals for demilitarizing the off-shore islands. One asked if the United States would withdraw its forces from Alaska should a similar situation arise in the Bering Straits.

The embassy also confirmed that Ambassador Everett Drumright had relayed to the government a statement by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles affirming that the U.S. would not bow to Communist force in the Far East.

The statement made public by Dulles said the U.S. would not retreat under fire but also would not refuse to negotiate with the Chinese Communists if they agree to a cease-fire.

The U.S. embassy, meanwhile, confirmed that Nationalist F-86 Sabre jets were flying with American-furnished "Sidewinder" air-to-air missiles.

The embassy, quoting a U.S. Information Service Washington dispatch, said the Nationalists were using the Sidewinders "with devastating effect on Soviet-built MIGs."

government in Nova Scotia was "one of the great gifts this province has given to the people of Canada." He said the province's "greatest days are yet to come. That is the challenge of this anniversary."

LIFE OR DEATH

Sir David Eccles, president of the British board of trade, told the packed legislature chamber the underdeveloped countries of the world look to the West or the Sino-Soviet bloc for help.

The West's response would decide life or death for the grandchildren of this generation.

Sir David said delegates to the recent Commonwealth trade conference in Montreal realized "that by acting separately and thinking only of our individual interests we could never solve the central problem of our age." The free world must apply its economic resources effectively "to prove beyond doubt that our way of life is better than the Communist way."

Canada's role as "pacemaker in the constitutional progress of the whole Commonwealth" began with Nova Scotia's first elected legislature. Now Canada's "robust manhood is the envy of the world."

Premier Stanfield said the democratic system of government in Canada started in Nova Scotia "but it is not finished and never will be finished. It is our duty to carry on..."

Militia Lieutenant Buried Here Today

Funeral service for Jack Barnsley, 843 Selkirk, was to be held today at Hayward's Funeral Home.

Mr. Barnsley, who died Wednesday following a lengthy illness, was 59.

He served in the air force during the First World War and was a lieutenant in the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) Militia. He was also a member of the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Barnsley, overcome by smoke during a blaze at his home, entered hospital June 30. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. C. M. Robinson, 843 Selkirk; a brother, Frank, of Vancouver; and two nephews in Victoria.

SOVIET RESUMED A-TESTS BECAUSE WEST KEPT ON

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government said today it has resumed testing nuclear weapons because the United States and Britain have kept on with their test shots.

A special announcement made through Tass News Agency said the blame falls on the two Western powers since they did not follow suit when the Russians announced suspension of test blasts six months ago.

Tass accused the United States and Britain of using the Soviet suspension "to secure the greatest possible military advantage for their side, thus ignoring the will of the peoples."

Pffft! There Goes One More Balloon

The Community Chest balloon atop the Black Ball building went flat Thursday as 40-cubic-feet of helium escaped through a burst bladder.

But the symbol of the Chest's $300,000 campaign was back in place a half-hour later with a new bladder filled with gas.

Today it still hovered at the $100,000 mark as campaign chairman Justin Harbord delivered some sharp remarks in the direction of national firms.

The response to the Chest appeal from national firms, in spite of earlier indications, is extremely disappointing," he said.

Although a number of national firms have donated "marvellous contributions, there still are a great number that completely refuse to recognize their responsibilities to this area."

Mr. Harbord pledged that Chest workers would continue to exert every effort to make the goal this year.

BELGRADE (AP) — The death toll in the worst mine disaster ever recorded in Yugoslavia rose to 54 today. The fate of eight other miners remains unknown but they are presumed dead.

Squeezed on the Brink

GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-shek has struck a heroic posture on Quemoy. He is, he says, unalterably opposed to withdrawal of his forces from the beleaguered island 10 miles off the Chinese mainland. The gallant and effective action of his outnumbered airmen has provided an imposing backdrop for his stand.

But, as the powers are now assessed, Chiang cannot wage a war against Red China. He must rely almost entirely on United States commitments. And the United States has been clearly warned by its Western allies that it would have to go it alone were it to open widespread action against Red China.

It is understandable that Chiang should have taken the position he has. Since they were forced into exile on Formosa his Nationalists have made no headway in their avowed intention to return to the mainland. The world generally recognizes that such a return would be possible only if Red China were beaten down by other powers and Chiang allowed to move back to the mainland after the Communists had been defeated.

The Western allies, despite their appreciation of the United States' involvement in the affairs of the Nationalists, have no inclination to attempt that service, with its nuclear war implications, for the Generalissimo.

Chiang, by losing his air force against the gun emplacements on the Chinese mainland, might touch the spark to the powder of a great explosion. But whether there is war or not, the decision still seems to rest with Red China.

That ability to make the decision, it appears, is worrying Red China's senior partner, Russia, possibly as much as it worries the West.

Reporting from Warsaw to The Christian Science Monitor, Mr. Joseph Harsch reveals current thinking on that point in the Polish capital.

He notes the experience gained by the United States and Russia in the dangerous game of brinkmanship. Russia, he points out, has played it cautiously on several previous occasions. At Berlin in the days of the blockade, in the Suez and in the more recent Middle East troubles, the Soviets went to the brink and carefully drew back.

There is not, however, any indication that Peiping would observe the same course as Russia. And therein may lie the chief danger—a danger presumably recognized by Russia as clearly as by the West for the very good reason that Russia could scarcely stay aloof from a major war waged by China.

The impressions Mr. Harsch has gleaned in Warsaw may, of course, be in error. They do, however, indicate a joint problem for the ideological opponents, Russia and the United States. That problem is to hold in check the respective Chinese with whom each has associations. Of the two, and assuming Mr. Harsch's suggestion to be correct, Russia could have the more difficult task.

Was the Bluff Called?

LAST MARCH, HAVING COMPLETED a Spring series of atomic test explosions, Russia announced that it would suspend further tests for a year if Britain and the United States would follow its example.

Both Western countries indicated that they were agreeable to a suspension after they had completed their current test programs. The United States reply was in the form of an offer to halt all nuclear tests for a year if Russia would do the same and also join in talks designed to establish an international nuclear test control system. The British reply was similar.

But the Russians' reaction was unfavorable. Perhaps they had not expected such quick agreement from the West. At any rate Tass denounced the Western offer as a trick to postpone effective action. It became obvious that the Soviet proposal had not been sincere, but merely an attempt, by a country which had carried out its annual tests, to embarrass other countries which had not.

This week that judgment was confirmed. Although the British and American offers of test suspension and control negotiations are still alive, Russia has abandoned its suspension and has embarked on further nuclear tests.

On the basis of scientific meetings held at Geneva earlier this year at which it was found that an international system of nuclear test control is feasible, conferences will open again in that city on October 31 with a view to reaching political agreement on the problem. The outcome of these meetings could well determine the safety of the race, but they will require much more cooperation if they are to be successful.

The Spreading Waste

ONE OF THE LESSER KNOWN repercussions of British Columbia's summer strike tie-ups may be seen in enrolment figures for the University of B.C.

With 9,800 students entered for courses, the total is 200 less than was expected and officials lay the blame on the strikes. The difference, they say, is the direct result of prospective students being unable to find employment while the strikes were on. More than 80 per cent of UBC students earn at least part of their education expenses through summer jobs.

Those who have had to postpone or perhaps even abandon their plans for higher education will have learned one hard economic and sociological lesson at least. But their loss is the province's loss, and will not likely be regained.

Timely Discipline

THE CITY'S PUBLIC WORKS committee has asked the city council to put up signs near downtown trash cans warning "litterbugs" that they risk fines up to $100 if they add to the untidiness of the streets and sidewalks. The proposal makes sense.

Civic pride should be enough to persuade people to keep their downtown area clean. If that pride is lacking, then a sharp slap in the pocketbook seems a reasonable disciplinary action.

It is to be hoped the signs will be erected and the bylaw enforced. With a few fines, even the illiterates will be able to translate the warning into "Stop throwing those banknotes around."

Are You There?

THE PUBLIC COMMENT THAT has greeted the new telephone book suggests that this volume is a best-seller by any standards, as eagerly sought after and read as the most popular of novels. The whole town appears to have read it through already.

The Victoria Labor Council has protested the abbreviated spelling of street names in the latest edition, and there can be few telephone subscribers who do not agree with the Council. One of the chief objections has arisen from the book's wide use as an aid in addressing Christmas cards. But the Council brings up another angle: school children will be hopelessly mixed up with the abbreviations, to the detriment of their class work.

This may well be, and the telephone company may have started a bigger trend than it realized in publishing the new streamlined form. That sort of thing could easily spread to other volumes. One shudders to think of dictionaries, encyclopaedias, directories, even Bibles, printed in the shortened form for similar reasons of space and economy.

For some persons, of course, the new style may be very suitable. Accustomed as they are to leaving out quite a few vital letters anyway in their spelling efforts, they may even take to abbreviating the abbreviations in order to keep ahead of the general and more orthodox public.

In any case, if you accidentally abbreviate the number along with the street name and get no results, you can always hang up the telephone receiver even if you can't— for lack of a punched hole—hang up the telephone book.

COLORFUL, MELODIOUS

Under the Spell

THOSE modern witch doctors, the industrial efficiency engineers, are at it again. They are continuing to probe the brain, the emotions, the ambitions, the hopes and fears, even the sex life of the potential consumer. And though the experts are too smart to believe that the customer is always right, they're going to have a good try at making him look that way. When automobiles, living-room furniture, and perhaps even lawn mowers for all I know, are styled to appeal to the buyer's Freudian fears, to his Oedipus complex, it is no surprise to learn that now the cerebrum teasers are experimenting with the psychology of colors and sounds in an effort to make us buy, buy, buy.

The chain groceriers in the United States have been among the first to draw the color line—and it's a pretty attractive line by all accounts. It ought to be—the psychological teams have been paid tens of thousands of dollars to make it so.

As one news item puts it, the effective use of color has two basic aims—to relax tension and to stimulate action. In other words—to loosen your tight grip on your pocketbook and get you to shell out in an active and sales-producing way.

Now you may not realize it when you go shopping, but what you do is determined to an important extent by your reaction to the colors you see. That's what it says here anyway.

Shades for Shopping
Strong, violent colors may anger you or tire you, and so increase your sales resistance. Wispy-washy colors will lack personality and fail to get your attention and your money. Properly planned colors will attract you, warm you, cajole you, and make you spend.

If there are too many colors you may become confused, and forget to buy. If not enough, you may look elsewhere for more stimulation.

Oh, yes, you're a finicky person, you customer, you. You'd be surprised to know how the psychology experts regard you, to learn of all the little things they've found out about you and how they are using them to their own advantage.

And to yours, too, of course. For your greater happiness depends on the goods you buy—at least, that seems to be the philosophy behind it all—and on how relaxed and active you are as you buy them.

The same ideas apply to the hired help, naturally. A bright, attractive factory causes the employees to attach nuts and bolts brightly and attractively. A dingy workroom leads to dingy doings.

With this knowledge, it is possible to decorate the factory or office in such a manner that the worker achieves the fullest happiness while turning out his utmost work.

Inside workers thus have it all over the poor outdoor worker. Consider the latter as he goes about his tasks, surrounded only by golden sunshine, blue skies, green fields and trees, blue-shadowed hills or white-crested waters.

And in autumn consider the plight of the laborer, forced to do his best in an environment of tinted leaves, wind-ruffled meadows or the pearl-grey haze of evening. He is entirely without the expert care that would ensure a proper blending of suitable colors—not too strong, but not too lacking in personality—and so inspire him to do his best work.

The trend in music, of course, is much the same. The employee is stimulated by suitably and scientifically selected tunes which will call forth his best effort. Too sprightly a tune will cause him to pay too much attention to the music, to the detriment of his output; too soothing a melody will lull him to an uneconomic pace.

Swing an' Sway

What is required is a good active piece by a lively orchestra, not too loud and not too soft—just enough to influence the worker without actually winning his attention.

And here's the clever part of it all. The tempo of the music is set just a shade faster than the employee's normal rate of work, so that unconsciously he is pressing just a lee-ette bit against his natural speed.

Ah, those psychologists. I wonder which colors and sounds stimulate them to do their best, inspire them to come up with ideas like that?

As for the customer, with both his eyes and ears in the hands of the hucksters, as it were, he won't have a chance. Can't you just imagine yourself in days to come, reaching for a modest half-pound of side bacon while soft yellow lights play on the walls and ceiling and the hidden loudspeakers give out with the Missouri Waltz.

Suddenly the lights change to rose or crimson and the store thunders to the Hallelujah Chorus. Muttering an apology, you hurriedly throw your purchase away and grab up two pounds of expensive back bacon, the gleam of triumph and fulfillment in your eyes.

Hard to Explain

Or how will you explain it to your wife or husband some day when you arrive home with eight large boxes of Wheezies, the Chesty Breakfast Food, instead of the one small one you intended to buy.

Can you just stammer: "The colors... the music..." and let it go at that? Will your spouse understand? Will she (or he) know that what really happened was that you fell into the toils of the modern witch doctors who cast a spell over you and moulded you to their will?

Already when I listh carefully I can hear—behind the clang of the cash registers, the seductive call of the music and the footfalls of buyers hurrying to the counters—the faint, far-off beat of a drum, a voodoo drum. Inevitably, sooner or later, it is going to come to that.

DENNIS THE MENACE

WHAT'S WRONG WITH HIM RUNNING AWAY FROM HOME? I THINK IT'S A WONDERFUL IDEA!

Appropriate to All of Us

From The Ottawa Journal

"MY name is Claude Bissell," said Dr. C. T. Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, as he began his opening address to the students and staff in Convocation Hall a few days ago. From that simple beginning he proceeded to have himself a ball, as today's saying goes, a ball quite different from the usual for such occasions.

This very literate and sophisticated man strode right into his audience with jokes, one after another, a daring act in itself. Then he allowed himself to ponder out loud whether a university would be better off without teachers or without students, arriving at no clear conclusion except that for the time being at any rate it had both.

By now he was warming up to the point where he warned that he was going to give them some advice—though unlike that offered "by your deans, professors and instructors, you can ignore it with less immediate peril to your future in this University." What was it to be?

Different Outlook

First: Up until now his audience had been pupils at secondary schools, and a pupil is "one who is taught by another." Now they must be students, and a student is "a person who is engaged in or addicted to study."

Second, they should begin to look ahead to life not with dark or rose-colored glasses but with bi-focals and a bit of each shade. "A good deal of what you say and do here will be ephemeral, and will be caught up and dissolved in the stream of experience, but much else that you do will remain with you and will determine your future. One thinks of the words of Goethe: 'Be careful what you wish for in your youth, for you will get it in your middle age.'"

Third point was somewhat of a qualification of the second, for the students should not set out too much to be "well-rounded" men or women. "Middle age is the time to be spherical. During your university days you should emphasize concentration and intensity; you should not be in the least afraid of being angular or lopsided."

Pseudo-Ideal

"I urge you to be sceptical of those who hold up the pseudo-ideal of being 'well-adjusted,' and who speak in glowing terms of the 'well-rounded' man or woman—as if the highest aim of university education were the production of dumplings."

"I distrust the principle of distribution—the idea that every university student should be exposed to the whole spectrum of knowledge, in what seems to me the naive belief that a university degree is the end and not the beginning of a genuine intellectual pilgrimage. If you have intensity of purpose and concentration, you will develop the confidence and sureness of touch that come from really mastering a subject, and you will be driven by your own intellectual curiosity into areas adjacent to your own."

Dr. Bissell, who by now had them where he wanted them and needed no jokes to gain attention, added that it would similarly be wrong for them to attempt to spend their extra-curricular activities in a bit of everything and not much of anything.

'Choose Carefully

"Choose your interests carefully, and having chosen them, make sure that you make something more than a surface contribution. The men and women who have given the greatest leadership in society following their graduation have not been, I assure you, the campus politicians, the 'all-round' students. They have been those who came here with intellectual passion, and who made this passion the centre for their development."

It was here that Dr. Bissell came to what seems to us to be a splendid sentence and a profound though simple thought. "One might regard your career here as a voyage of self-discovery, in the course of which you will identify your own peculiar convictions and aims."

Continuing Battle

He went on: "We are accustomed to saying today that Western civilization is characterized by respect for the individual and belief in the freedom of the human spirit. We do not possess these attributes simply by proclaiming them. They must be fought for. They are not the automatic gift of the society in which we live. We battle not with commissars, but with spiritual confusion; with a chorus of huckstering voices urging us that human happiness is to be achieved only by the purchase of a lengthening progression of automobiles, or by a daily diet of a certified number of 'positive thoughts.'"

This surely was an address of unusual form and quality, a greeting to adventuring youth from a man who is himself still an adventuring youth in the right sense of the term. We feel, too, that his remarks are appropriate to us, no matter at what age or point we are in our personal voyage of discovery.

Quemoy Realities

IT is encouraging to see Quemoy for I myself, as this reporter has just done, simply because the reality looks better than the statistics. There is nothing wrong with the statistics. The Chinese Communists have indeed fired more than a third of a million shells into Quemoy and its dependent smaller islands. A largely effective artillery blockade of Quemoy has indeed been established by heavy batteries on the landing beaches. The Quemoy garrison and population are indeed being supplied by mere limited blockade running; and the Quemoy position cannot be indefinitely defended in this manner.

But when you actually see Quemoy and its defenders, you learn two additional facts of cardinal importance. In the first place, in startling contrast to their performance in Korea, the Chinese Communists have thus far done a pretty miserable job with the military means at their disposal.

And for just this reason, in the second place, the problem of Quemoy is not quite so urgent as one might suppose.

Bad Showing

The pooriness of the Communist performance in this fighting has been both startling and mystifying. The most dramatically bad showing has of course been in the air. The Communist air force outnumbers the Nationalist air force by very nearly five to one.

The MIG-17s that the Communists chiefly rely on are also at least marginally better aircraft than the F-86s which the Nationalists have sent up against them. By any reasonable standard, the Communists ought to have been able to count on smashing victories in the air.

Instead, the crack Nationalist pilots have inflicted a series of really dramatically humiliating defeats on the Communists. There have been three major and several minor air battles thus far.

In all, the Communists have lost twenty-five aircraft certainly and seven or eight more probably, as proven by American study of the gun camera photographs. The Nationalists have meanwhile lost two aircraft in combat. In other words, the confirmed loss ratio has been close to fifteen to one.

There has been nothing accidental about this really staggering loss ratio, either. It has been consistently maintained. While this reporter was still on Quemoy, the Communist air commander made a desperate effort to retrieve himself, sending up 100 MIG-17s against only thirty-six Nationalist F-86s. The result was the biggest Communist air defeat to date.

Practical Matter

As a practical matter, these Nationalist air victories do not directly encourage Quemoy's defenders—we on Quemoy had no idea that a wild air fight was going on several miles above our heads. But they have to be thought about in connection with a related factor in the situation. Despite the immense weight of metal thrown, the Communist artillery has also been pretty wretched until now.

You might suppose that very small islands which have received something like 100,000 tons of shells in about a month's time would show the effects rather gravely. More than half of the enemy fire has fallen on Little Quemoy, and the two really tiny islands, Ta Tan, and Erh Tan. Allowance has to be made, for the much heavier damage suffered by these positions which no reporter has yet been able to see at first hand. But even after making this needful allowance, no visitor to Big Quemoy can feel very much respect for the Communist gunners.

The physical damage they have done is negligible, mainly because they have been using airburst and super-quick-fused shells. The casualties are very small in comparison to the enormous numbers of anti-personnel shells fired.

Solid Accomplishment

The one solid accomplishment has been the artillery blockade of the beaches. And although this artillery blockade has become the key feature of the whole problem, it is still not tight enough so that the blockade cannot be run by the resolute Nationalist Marines in their small amphibious landing craft.

The reasons for the astonishing decline in the Communist military performance since Korea are really anyone's guess. This reporter would guess that this remarkable phenomenon has two causes.

First, there are many reasons, convincing to anyone not absolutely stultified by the odd mystique of Chinese Communism, for suspecting the existence of a moral-political crisis inside China. This would be automatically reflected in the armed forces. There are signs that confirm this suspicion, too. Quite possibly, for instance, the Communist pilots are ill-trained because they are not trusted with enough fuel for long flights.

Second, the Peiping leaders evidently went into the Quemoy fighting as Stalin went into Finland, with delusions of invincibility. The pattern of the fighting suggests that they even hoped Quemoy would go down like the walls of Jericho, at the sound of the first great artillery barrage.

None of these encouraging facts mean for one moment that the Quemoy problem is not desperately dangerous. The distribution of Communist artillery fire plainly, suggests a possible landing attempt, either on Little Quemoy or the Tan islands.

Widened War

Even if the American policy makers hesitate, such an attempt will automatically mean a widened war; for the Nationalists will then send all their air power against the mainland targets which they have not hit as yet.

Furthermore, the Communist artillery blockade is bound to produce the desired result in the end, all by itself, and even if blockade-running is much improved, a blocked position under fire cannot be held forever by men who have no means to fight back.

But the fact that the Communists have done a poor job, so far, at least means that the garrison can be relied on to hold Quemoy much longer than the statistics suggest.

The leaders of Chiang Kai-shek's government have been talking of using their air power to the utmost within no more than a fortnight. But a full month can probably be allowed, with reasonable prudence, for diplomacy and experience to convince the Peiping government of the unwisdom of persisting in its Quemoy venture.

'Unto the Least of These...'

SOME time ago Margaret McClung, secretary-manager of the Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island, phoned her friend and mine, Evelyn Miller, to see if Mrs. Miller could help out for a morning at the cerebral palsy clinic.

Some of the regular volunteer workers weren't available, the work was piling up and the clinic was short-handed, she explained.

Mrs. Miller, couldn't think of a quick and graceful way to decline, appreciated the demands that friendship sometimes makes and figured one morning's work wouldn't kill her.

She's been going to the clinic ever since. "Until you've seen the clinic in operation," she said, "you have no idea what can be done for these children. How would you like to look the place over?"

So I went.

The old brown shingle annex east of the Jubilee Hospital tennis courts doesn't look very prepossessing from the outside. Its appearance is more attractive and cheerful when you go in.

The rooms where the small victims of cerebral palsy are treated and go to school are finished in pastels. In them, in addition to special equipment, such as narrow little chairs with boarded sides to stop small uncontrolled bodies from falling out, are toys and devices calculated to take a child's fancy. The atmosphere is bright and encouraging. The children are not over-protected.

The pamphlet they give you at the clinic explains that cerebral palsy is the general term for a group of disorders caused by damage to the brain.

Its most obvious effect is usually a disturbance of the motor functions; severe or slight, which impair the victim's movements. Some cannot walk, some walk improperly, and some cannot control the movements of their hands and arms.

Emotional and intellectual retardation may also be present and in addition, speech, eye and hearing defects are quite commonly encountered. The brain damage may cause seizures or fits. No two cases are exactly alike and some physically impaired may be mentally bright.

There is no cure for cerebral palsy, but most cases can be helped. When one series of muscles has no governing brain section to control them, other muscles can often be developed to compensate in part for the deficiency.

I watched the small ones taking primary work in the bright school room. Fifteen attend daily, eight more come three mornings a week. Mrs. Zelma Swanson, with the infinite patience of a teacher dedicated to her specialized work, was conducting a course in simple counting. The children had raised a pallisade fence of colored toothpicks on a plasticine base around a simulated field.

The pupils left their desks and assembled around the table holding the model. Some dragged their feet in awkward gait. Some lurched to their places. Some had to be helped by another volunteer. The impression created by them was not one of pity for muscular struggles, but one of gratification that they walked at all.

And if small minds have very little powers of concentration, the children were interested enough to be absorbed in counting the colored toothpicks, to be concerned with the efforts of their fellows to count. They seemed happy.

I watched Miss Mary Adam administering physiotherapy to a boy of four or five whose leg braces had been removed. When she asked him to stand and show how well he was progressing, the little fellow struggled to his feet, smiled at me and flung his arms around the physiotherapist's neck in genuine affection.

I looked in on Mrs. Olga Kiernan who was teaching another little lad to use his hands, to put pegs in holes they fitted and to place articles in assigned places.

It was one of the more difficult cases, Mrs. Kiernan explained, because the child seemed to have impaired hearing. Specialists were to examine him this weekend and determine if, or how well, he could hear.

Later we saw him with Mrs. Rose Banister, the speech therapist, who was trying to help him change the sounds that came from his mouth into words.

With an inflated balloon pressed to her lips and to his she was trying to make him conscious of the vibrations of speech. She placed his little hand on her throat to help him catch the idea that sounds came from that organ.

As we passed down a hall we saw some husky adults in a waiting room.

"Those," explained my guide, "are our friends the fire-fighters. They come in turn from the fire departments of Greater Victoria on their days off to drive our Bunny Buses, picking up the children and taking them home. We think it's kind of wonderful the way they give their time and the way they handle the youngsters."

My guide told me also that the association has a physiotherapist, Mrs. K. Stone, who visits cases in their homes, a social worker, Mrs. Carol McKinnon, and another teacher, Mrs. Mary Hiscok, who cares for the more severely handicapped three mornings a week.

And the whole operation is carried on by funds derived 78 per cent from the public and 22 per cent from a federal health grant.

The Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island would like to show this community what it is doing. That's why it is holding an open house from 2 to 4:30 tomorrow afternoon. It's worth a visit to cheer you up by showing you what people can do for little ones who are afflicted.

You'll be welcome.

Shadow of Isolationism

NEW YORK—Is there danger of a wave of isolationism sweeping the United States if she is abandoned by her friends on the China issue? Is there danger that abandonment might give new influence to the views of military extremists in Washington?

These are among the main arguments being advanced by U.S. allies to justify their support, such as it is, of American Far East policy. The arguments explain why the majority of the Western nations voted in the General Assembly not to consider the question of the admission of Communist China, thus flouting the wishes of over one-third of the members of the Assembly.

It's argued, however, that if the U.S. is abandoned at this time that two reactions might be triggered. One is that the latent spirit of isolationism, the "Fortress America" concept might seize the American public. It would be said that NATO, the UN, and foreign aid had all failed to win support for the U.S. It would be said that the American public had been cheated out of billions of dollars by unscrupulous, ungrateful people overseas, and it would be added that it's impossible to "buy" friends.

I was told by a senior official that it was feared that the result of this could be that the U.S. would reach an understanding with the Soviet Union which would, in effect, give the Russian Bear freedom to prowl unopposed by the U.S. as long as he did not molest American vital interests.

Furthermore, it's said that the U.S. might pull out of the UN. Mr. Dulles hinted at such a possibility in his opening speech before the General Assembly when he recalled that the U.S. did not back the League of Nations after the First World War, and he said he hoped that American support would be valued as an asset by the members of the present World Organization.

This statement was described to me as "the tip of an iceberg," a mere hint of what might become a nightmare possibility.

The other possible reaction to American "alone-ness" in the Far East—alone with 600,000,000 Chinese—might be to increase the influence of American military extremists. The argument here is that military planners, finding the U.S. abandoned by her allies, would wage a "strike now while we have the advantage" policy.

It's known that a school of thought exists in Washington which favors a knockout blow before Russia wrests military supremacy from the U.S. It's said that the U.S. has clear cut military superiority at the present time, but that in two or three years' time, when Russian intercontinental missiles are operational, that supremacy will be lost.

As a matter of fact there is a frightening community of interests between the "strike first" people in the U.S. and Chiang Kai-shek's thinking because, for him, too, the sands are running out.

It could well be "now or never" for Chiang and many people at the UN feel that the build-up of his forces in the off-shore islands was done deliberately to provoke a showdown. I am told on high authority that this build-up was done with the encouragement of senior U.S. officers on Formosa. Whether it was known, however, to senior officers in Washington is uncertain.

Wheat Crop Estimate Runs Higher

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 1958 wheat crop today was officially estimated at 367,300,000 bushels, some 28,000,000 higher than the bureau of statistics' first estimate issued last month.

While a crop of this size would still be below average, the outlook for its yield, has brightened considerably, with indications that about 85 per cent of all the Prairie cereals

now have been harvested.	General Motors Acceptance
The latest forecast of production is based on yields indicated on Sept. 15.	Toronto Star Limited

A wheat crop of 367,300,000 bushels would be just slightly below last year's 370,508,000. But the average yield of 17.6 bushels an acre were unchanged from last year. Acreage had declined slightly.

Virtually all major grain production estimates were higher than originally forecast last month.

'Mathematical Or Human Error' Toppled Bridge

VANCOUVER (CP) — An executive of Dominion Bridge Company said Thursday night "mathematical or human error" in the company's design led to collapse of the Second Narrows bridge last June 17.

Two engineers who might have been responsible were among 18 men killed in the accident.

The statement was made before a Royal Commission investigating the disaster. Robert Scott Eadie, vice-president in charge of the eastern division of Dominion Bridge, said engineers John Bertram McKibbin and Murray McDonald made and checked the calculations which independent engineers and the company later found had led to the collapse. They were both killed when the bridge fell.

A tier of steel beams supporting temporary framework under the half-finished, outermost span of the bridge across Burrard Inlet here, have been blamed. Discussing the Dominion Bridge study of the collapse, Mr. Eadie told the commission: "The staff considered all possibilities which might have had a bearing on the cause of the accident, but we eventually came to the conclusion that failure occurred in the upper grillage due to mathematical or human error made in the design of these beams."

Irish Flag Marks Maiden Voyage Here

The flag of the Irish Republic, seldom seen in Victoria, was flying at Ogden Point docks Thursday.

The spanking new freighter Irish Spruce was here on her maiden voyage to lift 480,000 feet of lumber for the United Kingdom.

The ship is owned by Irish Shipping Ltd., a company formed during the Second World War, when the country was threatened with complete loss of foreign trade through lack of ships.

A group of small shipping companies got together to form Irish Shipping, and the government contributed financial aid.

The company's fleet started with a few ancient ships, but the line has prospered through the years.

It now operates about 20 post-war British-built freighters and tankers.

Irish Spruce is currently operating on time charter. A sister ship, Irish Ash, is also in B.C. waters, and expected here Saturday.

Master of Spruce is Capt. R. C. Woolfenden, and Victoria agent is King Bros. Ltd.

B.C. Weeklies Hold Convention in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — The publishers and editors of British Columbia's 59 weekly newspapers arrived here Thursday for the 40th annual convention of the B.C. Weekly Newspaper Association.

The three-day session began with a civic welcome from Al Herman Frank Baker and greetings from the national association from president Hugh McCormick and managing director Bill Telfer.

W. E. Dunning of Haney, B.C. president, reported the association is in flourishing condition and said all the weeklies had a busy centennial year. The 100 delegates take part in a seminar today on public relations.

Australia is the largest exporter of lead to the U.S., with average sales of 120,000 tons a year.

JOINT TOURIST DRIVE URGED WITH ALASKA

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — Governor Albert D. Rosellini of Washington suggested Thursday that Alaska join Washington, Oregon and British Columbia in a joint tourist promotion program.

He said such a program has in effect, already been started since Washington, Oregon and B.C. have previously sponsored joint tourist advertisements in national magazines.

To encourage tourists to visit Alaska, Rosellini said, "we would support logical moves for more direct highway routes and improved steamship service between Washington and Alaska."

Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of British Columbia, presiding over the commission, ruled the names must be brought out.

The inquiry was adjourned until Friday.

Earlier, the commission group visited a North Vancouver cartage yard to study re-assembled portions of the wrecked falsework, salvaged from Burrard Inlet.

'DAMNING EVIDENCE' IN IMPAIRED CASE

Skin Pill Alibi Rejected

Two motorists each were found guilty and fined $250 for impaired driving when their cases concluded in Saanich police court Thursday.

Robert Merrick Hall, 2235 Arbutus, was remanded for a probation report on the matter of licence suspension, and Richard L. Sandwith, 309 Caldecote, was restricted to business driving only for one year.

Defence counsel for Hall said "although there are a number of points in the evidence which are damning," there were certain aspects in favor of the accused.

Conditions of slow speech and difficulty in moving about which were relied upon by the prosecution as evidence of impairment are conditions which frequently occur in later years, counsel said.

OUT ON LAWN — Magistrate H. C. Hall remarked there also was evidence that the accused had passed out completely on the lawn in front of his house.

Court had been told the accused abandoned his car in a ditch a few hundred yards from his home.

The defence said he had taken some pills for a skin condition which may have produced effects similar to impairment, but medical evidence was not called.

Sandwith was arrested after police followed his car for about a half mile on West Saanich Road about 4.30 a.m., weaving and running from time to time onto the shoulder of the road.

Court was told he had been drinking off and on between 5 and 11 p.m. the evening before. He said he had about 10 glasses of beer and two drinks of whisky.

Cerebral Palsy Clinic Gives Hope to Helpless

If you are bored, or perhaps discouraged, drop into Victoria's Cerebral Palsy Clinic and see the wonderful job that is being done for children whose normal development has been arrested by damage to the brain.

Seventy such children, ages ranging from 15 months to 18 years, are receiving skilled treatment daily in the friendly green-walled clinic beside the tennis courts at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Some are making rapid progress; some are responding only very slowly to the treatment. A few, alas, will never be able to join the parade of boys and girls growing up to a full and active maturity.

Do they ever get discouraged—these gallant teachers and specialists who battle the effects of cerebral palsy?

"No," says Mrs. Olive Kierman, attractive occupational therapist who is one of a permanent staff of nine at the clinic.

"There are enough children making real progress to make up for the few who do not seem to respond to treatment. It is fascinating work and very rewarding when you have your heart in it."

That also is the view of petite brown-eyed Mrs. Margaret McClung, who has been secretary-manager of the Victoria Cerebral Palsy Association since it was formed late in 1952.

"It is wonderful to see this work growing and developing," she said. "We opened our first clinic on a part-time basis in February, 1953, with only seven patients and a staff of two.

"Now we have twice the accommodation—still not as much as we need—but enough to make us feel we are getting somewhere."

"And our staff of volunteer workers, each giving us their services for half a day each week, has grown to 67."

'OPEN HOUSE' SET SATURDAY

Victoria's Cerebral Palsy Clinic, adjoining the Royal Jubilee Hospital will hold open house on Saturday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. when the general public is invited to inspect the recently enlarged premises.

Additions to the five-year-old clinic include a new classroom, a kitchen and a waiting room for parents and friends.

Seventy palsied Victoria children are now under treatment.

The clinic has 14 directors, of whom six are the parents of palsied children, working under the presidency of J. G. Robison. And the bunny buses which bring the children to and from the clinic every day are driven by volunteers from Victoria Firefighters' Union.

In the physiotherapy department I watched Miss Mary Adam, MCSP, teaching a pretty four-year-old girl to walk and obviously deriving great pleasure from watching the child's faltering footsteps across the room.

The little girl could not walk at all when she first attended the clinic two years ago. Now she is well on the way and laughing merrily over her own progress.

Last Letter Lost

Mrs. Rose Bannister, LCST, the speech therapist, was busy teaching simple words to a 13-year-old girl who is said to be very intelligent but has difficulty sounding the final consonant in words like "cat" and "bag."

The girl lay on a couch while Mrs. Bannister gently manipulated her lips with her fingers as she struggled to repeat the words spoken to her.

"That's better—much better," whispered Mrs. Bannister as the difficult lesson proceeded.

In the occupational therapy room, Mrs. Kierman is helping a 10-year-old boy whose left hand is palsied to use it in conjunction with his right in the exercise of weaving wool on a frame.

"He is coming on nicely," she said, pointing to a gaily-colored piece of weaving.

Typewriter Helps

She has an electric typewriter for the use of older children, some of whom cannot speak yet are capable of spelling out words with one, two or three fingers on the typewriter.

One is an intelligent 12-year-old girl who speaks with difficulty and whose fingers are so palsied she cannot write. Amazingly, she is able to work the typewriter and is making good progress at her lessons.

A boy of 10 cannot hold up his head unless it is supported by a strap attached to a special chair. But with patience and practice his therapist friends believe he will soon be able to control his neck muscles.

And so the work goes on. In the sunny classroom, which is under the direction of Greater Victoria school board, teachers Mrs. Zelma Swanson and Mrs. M. Hiscock handle a daily class of 21 children who cannot attend regular schools.

Mrs. K. D. Stone is the home visiting therapist, treating children in their homes, and Mrs. Carol McKinnon, B.A., is employed as social worker at the clinic.

Seventy-five per cent of the clinic's funds come from individual and group donations or money raised by the Cerebral Palsy Association. The other 25 per cent is supplied by a federal government health grant.

What is the cause of cerebral palsy?

Research Needed

Specialists admit that all the causes are not yet known. But the affliction may result from faulty development giving rise to a poor supply of oxygen to the infant's brain before, during or after birth.

It may also be due to blood incompatibility causing jaundice or injury to the brain. Few cases, the specialists say, result from poor obstetrics at birth.

Present estimates are that, for every 100,000 children born, seven are victims of cerebral palsy. This means that every year in B.C. alone there are likely to be about 85 new cases.

A child with cerebral palsy may not be able to pick up things. If he tries, all his arm muscles may become clenched and rigid. Or he may have difficulty in walking. His trunk and leg muscles don't work together to hold him straight, and he can't make his feet move one in front of the other.

About 85 out of every 100 children afflicted are either spastic or athetoid cases. The spastic child has suffered damage to the motor area of the brain that translates his desires into action. The athetoid children have suffered damage to the brain stem, so that their movements cannot be directed.

Other rarer types of palsy cause a child to walk jerkily or stagger; and some children have a combination of several types, but usually with one type predominating.

Damage to the brain most often occurs before the baby is born, since even an unborn baby is subject to injury and defects in development.

"Children with cerebral palsy are severely handicapped," says Mrs. McClung. "But the majority have just as great a chance of happiness as anyone else."

"After all, everyone has some kind of handicap. It is the attitude we take towards them that decides whether we will master them, or they will master us."

With a Guaranteed Audience!

You can SEE POSITIVE PROOF of the number of homes and families your sales message reaches when you buy advertising space in a newspaper.

Stop and think before you place your confidence in claims based on the rough estimates of cross-section surveys and sketchy "polls." Don't settle for less than figures that are complete and accurate... figures that will stand up to any investigation.

Buy your advertising just as you do other tangibles, merchandise, etc. Ask to SEE UNDENIABLE PROOF of how many people your advertising message will reach, where they live, what their buying habits are.

Only the newspaper, through the Audit Bureau of Circulations* can give you its circulation facts with absolute accuracy and clarity. Ask to see this information this week. No other media can substantiate claims for a GUARANTEED AUDIENCE!

Hey, What's Going On?

Each has a different slant on play, but all eyes are on first base to see if second leg of double-play attempt is completed. Play occurred in fourth inning Thursday after Milwaukee's Bill Bru-

KEATS ISLAND TOO!

Riskshot Has One-Track Mind

By HAL MALONE
Race horses are supposed to know nothing about geography. Maybe that's a myth. Ever since Sandown opened to tourists, certain animals have been running with far more rapidity than they displayed elsewhere. Either that, or the slow horses are running slower and making the not-so-slow horses look like handicappers.

Whatever it is about Sandown—the palm trees, the plush clubhouse, or maybe fried onions—certain horses go for it. Riskshot is an example. His Vancouver performances (nothing for 18 starts) indicated this horse had a future. In the glue works.

But at Sandown, he trotted home first in a semi-marathon Saturday and captured the finale Thursday. If he were to keep on improving and the meet lasted long enough (say to Christmas), he might make it to the feature race!

LADY HAS HER WAY
Keats Island is another character, pardon me, horse, who has found at Sandown the key to success. A shy maiden on the mainland, she, too, has scooted to victory twice at Sandown. She had to get rid of a pesky customer, Queensboro Lad, to win, but girls (Keats Island) have a way with boys (Queensboro Lad), and that's the way it was Thursday.

The feature Thursday was the "Gorge Road" Claiming, purse $500, for three-year-olds, claiming price $600. Round Table couldn't make it, but Indian Springs could and did. Even though he nearly fell, ran up on the heels of other horses, and had to come around the outside, winning his second straight was a simple task.

Jimmy McDougal, who trained the winner, took two horses home. He claimed the unplaced Buddy H, for $600. The latter has achieved some success around lesser tracks, winning five this year.

OVERLOOKED
Fastest trip of the day over six furlongs was negotiated by Sharp Regards. The betting public was hardly as sharp; they let the gelding go to the post at 7-2. Aided by Joe Webster, who used his head instead of his whip, Sharp Regards just pulled the string with My Addy in the fourth at $38.90.

Charlie Ulrich, sailed in from Madtogo and Jack Arterburn tallied with Riskshot to leave Ulrich ahead 14 to 12 in the leading rider stakes. Kathy Fin was a late scratch in the first, maintaining the track's average of almost one a day. Apart from the fact that supporters of a horse scratched at post time are inconvenienced, should they or anyone be subjected to betting—in many cases, making favorite—a horse so sore or lame that his condition isn't known beforehand? Pam-arc, Broad Bend, Kathy Fin are examples of late post scratches on three successive days.

PLENTY OF MATERIAL
Sewed up. There are at least three other fellows on the club can take it away from him. I'm referring to Real Chevrefils, who's going as well as ever, and he was a 30-goal man just two years ago; Guy Gendron, whom we drafted from the Rangers, and young Gord Redhal, drafted from Winnipeg.

If Bucyk makes it, we could have the same fine regular forward, who finished the year for us last season. But even so, we'll have more depth around them.

Johnny Pierson has retired, but now we've got Gendron and Earl Reibel from Detroit to kill off penalties. Not that they'll do it all. Jerry Toppazini and Fleming Mackell are clearly the best penalty-killing combination in the league. At least they'll have more help. Topper and Mackell will have plenty of work taking a regular turn with Don McKenney. This was as good a line as there was in the league after McKenney switched to wing and Mackell to centre.

Bronco Horvath and Vic Stasiuk are set, even if Bucyk still doesn't know. Our third line is an excellent checking line and it could show plenty of punch too. Leo Labine could recover his scoring touch. He'll have Norm Johnson at centre and Larry Regan on the left wing.

I should tell you about Ken Yackel, the nine-letter man from the University of Minnesota. He could be the

'CAUSE IF YOU WAIT, DRINKS GET TOO WARM

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Braves' Lew Burdette kept a corps of sports writers, radio and television personnel waiting five minutes Thursday while he went through "the ritual."

"The ritual" consists of carrying cans of cold beer from one end of the Braves' clubhouse to a table in the middle, opening and passing them out to his fellow pitchers. Tradition assigns the task to the winning pitcher.

Not a question would be answered until "the ritual" was completed.

"This is the law," he said, "I've got to finish this before I talk."

Trio Jailed After Rink 'Disturbance'

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A stick-swinging duel on the ice Thursday night built up into a trip to police cells for three players in a major league exhibition hockey game.

An on-the-ice stick duel between New York Rangers' rookie Eddie Shack and Hershey Bears' Larry Zeidel was resumed in a wild free-for-all in the stands after both were ordered out of the game. Hershey's Obie O'Brien got into the second act.

In between scraps, the National Hockey League Rangers carved out a 7-3 victory over Hershey, American League champions last year.

The three players were arrested and are to appear in court next week. Zeidel was to be freed today on $500 bail. He was charged with assaulting a police officer and creating a disturbance. Bail for O'Brien, charged with obstructing police, was set at $200, and for Shack, whose charge was creating a disturbance, $100.

It started as the Rangers were leading 3-0 midway through the second period. Shack and Zeidel began flailing away with their sticks and Zeidel suffered a head wound that needed 10 stitches to close.

Referee Dalt McArthur gave both Shack and Zeidel match penalties. He ruled Shack's infraction as deliberate injury, a 10-minute penalty, and Zeidel's as attempt to injure, for a five-minute major.

Both were ordered off the ice and sent to club dressing rooms. Play stopped completely early in the third period when Shack and Zeidel started battling again; this time in street clothes in the stands.

Cadets Shut Out Pats In Rugby Union Debut

Darkness closed in before JBAA and Victoria College Cadets to a 6-0 score.

Navy scores went to Dave McDonald, with a try, and Ian Hallaran, with a penalty kick.

Saturday action will feature three matches on city pitches with Oak Bay Reds meeting PCCLI at Windsor Park, Royal Roads playing JBAA at Royal Roads and Victoria College hosting HMCS Venture at Carnarvon Park, all starting at 2.30.

Even Casey Has to Admit Yanks Severely Spanked

Braves Jump Into 2-0 Lead As Burdette Comes Through

(From Associated Press Reports)
MILWAUKEE—Having had time to dress and collect his thoughts and wit, Casey Stengel said: "They really gave us a clubbing out there and they didn't let up. We had a good going over."

"There was nothing wrong yesterday but our hitting. There was nothing wrong today but our pitching."

For a departing thought as Casey took his 135 beaten Yankees from Milwaukee back to New York, the nattily-attired manager took a dig at the world series umpiring.

"Those Braves ran on us, but that blind guy at second (referring to American League umpire John Flaherty) didn't see. He was looking at the bag instead of the play. He didn't see (Gil) McDougald tag (Eddie) Mathews on the head in that steal. (It was 'in the fourth)."

"The game was so one-sided

I didn't make a beef on it. Maybe it looked to everybody else that Mathews was safe. But he wasn't."

This was the only time Casey let on he was irked.

"We couldn't get to the ball except in the last inning," he said. "In the first inning that (Lew) Burdette had three men on and took care of everyone. But I'm not worried about Burdette now. He pitches good against us but I've seen a lot of better pitchers against us."

"No, don't think those Braves are going to run on us. They aren't unless they've got a lot of new speed that old Casey doesn't know about."

What's Different About Yankees?

Manager Fred Haney quietly dressed without making much comment on the lopsided victory.

He was asked if he honestly thought beforehand that it would be possible to score seven times against the Yankees in one inning of a world series—the opening inning at that.

"They are just human beings with two arms and two legs like anybody else," he said. "And, besides, we've had seven runs scored against us, haven't we?"

So now the Braves are two up and two to go. But there isn't a Milwaukee fan who thinks it will be easy.

That's the picture today as the Braves and Yankees take a 24-hour breather following Lew Burdette's conquest of the American League champions that gave Milwaukee a 2-0 edge in the best-of-seven series.

Despite their crushing defeat, natching the worst beating they ever absorbed in series competition, the Yankees were confident they could turn the tables on the Braves, winning at least two of the three games in Yankee Stadium.

Giants. But he had relief help in one game. Burdette's have all been complete jobs.

Burdette homered in the last half of the first inning to cap a record seven-run inning by the Braves that all but wrapped it up. He was the fifth pitcher to homer in a world series and the first since Bucky Walters did it for Cincinnati against Detroit in 1940.

Elston Howard, playing left field for the Yanks, crashed into the fence in an effort to pull down Burdette's poke. Examination showed he probably will be on the sidelines for Saturday's game.

Howard's replacement, Norm Siebern, got one of the seven hits off Burdette, who walked one and struck out five. Bauer had two hits and Mantle two. Bauer's homer was his second of the series and fifth in series competition. Mantle has hit 11 in series play, second only to Babe Ruth's 15.

Burdette entered the game 5½ innings shy of Ruth's world series record of 29½ consecutive shutout innings. But he was out of business as far as that mark was concerned when the Yankees scored an unearned run in the first inning.

"We sure loused up that record quick," he said.

The Braves' big inning was the largest run total for one club in the first inning of any world series. And only the 1921 New York Giants ever scored more in one inning against the Yankees, counting eight in a seventh-inning spurge for a 13-5 romp matched by the Braves.

Brooklyn Dodgers, also operating as world champions at the time, are the only other club to score 13 against the Yankees in one game. That came in a 13-8 second-game victory for a 2-0 lead in the 1956 series—won in seven games by the Yankees.

Turley, now 1-3 in series play, had a lead for only five pitches Thursday. Leadoff man Billy Bruton, the hitting star of the first game, put the sixth pitch over the right field fence and the Braves were off. Burdette's homer came off righthander Duke Maas.

I should tell you about Ken Yackel, the nine-letter man from the University of Minnesota. He could be the only American-born and raised player in the NHL, but right now he looks a year away. He'll open with our Providence farm. He's a tremendously-built kid, weighing 198, and he's a left wing. He played at St. Paul last year.

If we carry six defencemen, they'll be Fern Flaman, Doug Mohs, Leo Boivin, Allan Stanley and Larry Hillman along with Bob Armstrong, who didn't finish the year with us. If we cut down to five, it'll be a matter of cutting Hillman, Stanley or Armstrong.

We feel good about goal. Harry Lumley has surprised us with his hard work. Don Simmons always had it. We've got two big leaguers there.

Notes and Quotes From World Series

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Fred Haney of Milwaukee Braves is a relatively quiet, little strategist who seems to be getting a devilish delight in keeping Saturday's World Series pitcher a secret.

If it's not Bob Rush, former hard luck righthander of Chicago Cubs who was 10-6 for the Braves this season, there will be a few raised eyebrows.

Casey Stengel already has named Don Larsen to try to retrieve Yankee prestige in the third game.

"I pitched the same way against them as last year. Why should I change?" asked Braves' Lew Burdette as he continued his mastery over New York.

Burdette laughs off suggestions he has been using a secret weapon on the Yankees.

Bob Turley left the park before reporters could get to him, but catcher Yogi Berra explained Turley's troubles:

"They were hitting his fast ball and he couldn't get his breaking ball over the plate."

Mickey Mantle was getting a good-natured riding from fans in the centre field bleachers. Each time he took the field fans rose up wearing mouse ears and chanting the Mickey Mouse Club theme song.

Burdette, asked what sort of a pitch he hit for his three-run homer in the first inning, deadpanned: "A long ball."

"The Braves management provided a little bonus for the fans who sat through the entire game. They promised to demonstrate the new automatic field tarpaulin at the end of the ninth inning."

Attendance was 46,367, exactly the same as for the opener. Net receipts for the two games was $554,527.20, of which the players receive $282,808.88.

Time to Stop Knocking and Open Door

By MILT SCHMIDT
Coach, Boston Bruins

BOSTON (UPI)—Of our Stanley Cup showing in the finals the last two years, there hasn't been too much separating the Boston Bruins from the big hockey prize.

This year we're better than last year or the year before. We've got more to choose from. We've had a better camp. It's always nice to know a guy earns a job instead of falling into one.

Take Johnny Bucyk. We got the notion at the start of training that he might go better on defense than at left wing. So we experimented with him. It didn't work out.

Now he's back at left wing but he hasn't got the job sewed up. There are at least three other fellows on the club can take it away from him. I'm referring to Real Chevrefils, who's going as well as ever, and he was a 30-goal man just two years ago; Guy Gendron, whom we drafted from the Rangers, and young Gord Redhal, drafted from Winnipeg.

OUTDOOR REPORT

BY

Doug Peden

Every once in a while we get asked, "from which side should a dog work when being trained or used for hunting?" It seems a natural question for the new owner of a shooting dog. Since pointing dogs have been pushed into the back ground by retrievers in this part of the country, the fellow who is starting out to train his first dog has probably seen retrievers being worked at trials—or pictures of them—and noted the dog on the right of the handler.

Then he watches obedience trainers who have received instruction in regular classes and observes the dogs on the left. And if he then runs into pictures which show the European system, with dogs working on the opposite side from what is common gun-dog practice in Canada, it's no wonder he becomes confused.

Which is correct?

The side on which a dog should be worked depends on the work. The obedience set, starting as an outgrowth from bench showing, handle their pooches from the left side, according to dog show tradition. Obedience advocates feel that handling from the left leaves the right hand free for other things, and since most of us are right-handed, this is an advantage.

Field dog men, after years of carrying a shotgun cradled in the left arm, pointing either up and away or down and away from shooting companions and dogs, find the right side more convenient.

Double-barreled scatterguns can be draped easily over the left arm when broken and in this position, offer a safe and convenient method of toting while a dog is being trained or hunted. By bringing the barrel up, the gun will be pointing away from friends and dogs when it closes.

If you haven't yet fallen into any handling habits and may eventually be interested in trial work, train obedience dogs on the southpaw side and shooting dogs on the right.

But if you are training a retriever solely for your personal use there is no reason why you cannot work him on the side of your choice.

Before I took time to ask the experts, I started training my Labrador to work from my left side. I've never had any trouble keeping the gun muzzle pointed away from him and I'm sure his efficiency isn't lessened by the fact he starts and finishes at my left knee instead of the right.

Right, left or centre, he doesn't care. As long as it's hunting, he's happy.

Members of the Greater Victoria Lions Club and Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association couldn't have come up with better timing for their annual coho derby.

All proceeds from the derby, which starts at dawn Saturday and continues until 2 p.m. Sunday, will again go to the Greater Victoria Cerebral Palsy Association. Only coho salmon will qualify for any of the more than 50 prizes and the usual VSIAA derby rules will be in effect.

What may tempt many anglers to a shot at derby prizes is the fact that fishing activity off the southern end of Vancouver Island, from Sooke to Oak Bay, has slowed down to a walk in the past week and Saanich Inlet has continued to be a consistent producer of good catches.

Anglers off Sidney have had only spotty fishing for several weeks and Up-Island activity, although showing signs of improving this week, has also been an in-and-out proposition lately.

Best coho catches reported in the past few days have been taken in Saanich Inlet, off Cherry Point and in Cowichan Bay. Results have been fairly good in Cowichan Bay with early-morning fishing perhaps the most productive. Anglers had some fast action Thursday morning and several limits were brought in, including one by Harold Fielding.

Favored lures at Cowichan have been bucktail flies, small pearl-pink plugs and the U-20 flatfish. Minnows, small Strip Teasers, plugs and small spoons have been producing at Cherry Point and the Inlet, but bucktails are doing the most business.

Green-and-white bucktails were working for Stan Williams Wednesday afternoon between Senanus Island and Mill Bay. Stan was giving visiting fishing tackle executives Derek Beacham of Calgary and Bill Hill, Toronto, a taste of west coast angling and the trio ended up with four husky silvers, one taken on an abalone spoon.

Several other good coho broke away, four escaping when they snapped eight-pound test leaders. And Williams, who is beginning to look like a baseball expert; reportedly used the landing net like a baseball bat on the biggest fish and got charged with an error.

Trot Marks Tumble

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Emily's Pride virtually clinched the three-year-old trotting championship Thursday with a victory in the $53,330 Kentucky Futurity that saw world records tumble.

The daughter of Star's Pride was beaten in the first heat of the tradition-rich race but came back to take the second mile by a neck and romped home by 4½ lengths to capture the deciding dash.

Senator Frost, who set a world race record for sophomore trotters in winning the first heat, finished second in the final summary, and Mr. Saunders was third.

Here are the records: Senator Frost trotted the first mile in 1:59 1-5, a three-year-old race record that beat the 1:59 2-5 set by Protector in winning the Futurity 27 years ago.

Emily's Pride sped the second mile in 1:59 2-5, a world mark for three-year-old fillies in a race. It chopped 2-5 of a second from the standard she set in taking the Hambletonian in August.

The combined time of 5:58 2-5 for three divided heats lowered the old record of 6:02.

Juvenile Leaders Tangle on Sunday

The "giants" of the Victoria and District Juvenile Canadian Football League square off Sunday at Camarvon Park.

It will be the first meeting of the season between Campbell River and Oak Bay Police, each of whom have won their opening games. Game time is 2 p.m.

Table Tennis League Registration Monday

Registration for members of the Victoria Table Tennis Association will take place Monday, starting at 7 p.m., at the association's Club Sirocco headquarters.

League play starts Tuesday with arrangements completed for beginners' classes.

Hal Brings in Big Ones To Keep 'Peace' on Ice

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Hal Laycoe looks for a more peaceful pursuit of his favorite game of hockey this year, his third in the Western Hockey League as manager-coach of the New Westminster Royals.

Some doubt his sincerity when they look at the three six-foot rookies he has recruited for his 1958-59 training camp and others burst out laughing if they see big George McAvoy, once the scourge of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League and captain of the Penticton V's of the world championship fame.

But Hal has a theory. "You know," he said, after having a good look at McAvoy's king-sized frame and authoritative manner on the ice, "This guy is just what I really need—a cop."

"A lot of people might say I'm crazy," he said, "but I never had as little trouble with minor fracas as when I had Pete Durham out there. When there was a fracas, it was a lulu, but there was none of this fooling around. I figure McAvoy will have the same effect."

Laycoe figures he has the best turnout of talent he has had in his three-year tenure of office, and is positive that he has a contender.

He made one reservation. Vancouver Canucks are publicizing a good club this year, and "you have to believe them after last year, when they said they would take everything in the league—and did."

On defence, he will have Ron Matthews and Fred Creighton. Matthews' record as an all-star speaks for itself, and Creighton made the biggest improvement of any player on the club last year.

John Yanchuk, who played half of last year with the Royals before being sold to Victoria, has been re-purchased from Victoria this year, and he will have plenty of competition from three husky young rookies—Howard Young, Bill McDowell and Norman Ryder.

Of the three, Young is the most highly touted by the Toronto Maple Leaf organization, to which all three belong. Add McAvoy to this list, and Laycoe has five adequate replacements for the two defencemen he lost.

On the centre stripe, he has Max McNab, Art Jones and Dick Van Impe. McNab, former coach of the club, is its "elder statesman."

On the port side, there are Gordon Fashaway, one of the all-time high goal scorers in pro hockey; Hugh Barlow, a natural left wing, who had to work on

Toe's Like Casey

All-Star Games Put Dull Finish On Glowing Marks

MONTREAL (UPI) — Toe Blake, coach of the Montreal Canadiens, is just a rookie compared to Casey Stengel of the Yankees, but already there appears to be a budding parallel in their careers.

Blake, like Casey, was once a top drawer performer in his playing days, playing left wing on hockey's famous "Punch Line," with Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach. Blake, also like Stengel, bounced around the minors for a few years, and then out of the game entirely before he got his big chance with the colorful Canadiens.

Blake was never paid not to manage a team as was Stengel's experience one year with Brooklyn, but he did get the bounce in mid-season from Buffalo Bisons of the American League. Stengel earned most of his "character" references while toiling with assorted minor league teams and, in the same vein, Blake's teams usually made up in color what they lacked in playing talent.

NO FOOLING!

Once Stengel assumed field control of the Yankees, however, he was strictly business. So, too, was Blake. And the Canadiens' pilot has been almost as successful in his first three years behind the Montreal bench as Stengel was in his first three years, winning the American League pennant and the world series. Blake's talented Habs have won the Stanley Cup three straight years, tying the Toronto Maple Leafs' record.

Strangely, though, neither of these two otherwise successful pilots have had much luck in all-star games. Stengel has produced a winner in only three of eight appearances, while the best Toe could do was a 1-1 tie in 1956. The previous year, while coaching the All-Stars, Blake lost, 3-1, to the champion Detroit Red Wings. Last year his Canadiens blew a 5-3 decision to the All-Stars.

BIG GAME SATURDAY

The Canadiens, as Stanley Cup champions, will host the all-star game at the Forum Saturday night.

Our all-star record is deplorable," said Blake.

"Usually, I'm not too critical of our teams publicly," he added. "I like to keep criticism for the dressing room. But every time I think of this club's record in the all-star games I get hot under the collar. It's not just poor—it's lousy."

The Canadiens have played the All-Stars three times, 1953, 1956 and 1957, although Blake was not around when Dick Irvin's Habs lost, 3-1.

Blake wants that record fourth straight Stanley Cup more than anything, but he'd like to get started with a win over the All-Stars Saturday night.

NEW FOOTBALL TIE-UP

Recruit Don Caraway of New York Giants has introduced new style of footwear into National Football League. He kicks with underpart of shoe, wrapping shoelace around front cleat and back of ankle. Holding ball for rookie kicker is veteran Charley Conerly. (NEA).

'Something Different'

Jack Patrick is looking forward to having his Oak Bay Drakes meet Vancouver Wildcats.

"It's going to be different,"

the Drakes' playing coach said Thursday night.

What's going to be so different about an exhibition game?

"Wildcats are supposed to have a good defence. That will be something new for us."

Indeed it will. The Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football League leaders have found only two squads capable of containing their vaunted attack this season.

Drakes have stomped over their city rivals—Navy and Vampires—with ease, marking up four straight victories while outscoring them 147-29.

But, on the other hand, Drakes' exhibition record is less impressive. They dropped a 31-0 verdict to Surrey Rams in their first game of the season and then bowed 27-10 to Seattle Ramblers.

"You can write off that first game," suggested the genial Mr. Patrick. "We played with only 18 men."

Anthony Aiming For Recognition

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tony Anthony tries tonight for the second time in a month to chop his way into the heavyweight boxing picture against Archie McBride.

The televised fight is scheduled for 10 rounds.

Anthony won a decision over McBride last month. The 24-year-old Anthony is trying to move into the heavy division after fighting his way to No. 2 among light-heavyweights.

He won 34 of his 40 bouts before tangling with McBride, who is known in the trade as a spoiler. McBride, 29, has fought most of the ranking heavyweights, including champion Floyd Patterson. His record is 21 victories in 35 bouts.

TEAM TO BEAT

"What you can't discount, however, is the fact that the Wildcats have beaten Surrey twice this season. From all reports, Vancouver is the team to beat in the provincial playoffs."

Wildcats' appearance this Saturday afternoon at Macdonald Park will be their second of the year. The team, minus such stars as Pete Von Harten and Laverne Lofstrom, rolled up a 26-0 verdict over Vampires on Sept. 6.

Patrick insists that Von Harten and Lofstrom, both of whom played briefly with the B.C. Lions, will be in the Wildcat lineup.

"That in itself," Patrick added, "should make the game very interesting."

Kickoff time Saturday is 2.30.

U.S. TENNIS SELECTORS PUT ACCENT ON YOUTH

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association Thursday named a Davis Cup team accenting youth, with two teen-agers on the five-player squad that will play in Australia.

Picked for the team were Earl Bucholz Jr., of St. Louis, Mo.; Chris Crawford, Piedmont, Calif.; Barry Mackay, Dayton, Ohio; Alejandro Olmedo, of Peru, and Hamilton Richardson of Washington, D.C. Mackay is the only holdover from last year's squad.

Bucholz, 18; Crawford, 19, will receive special tutoring in their school studies from Richardson and Olmedo during the trip to Australia.

The United States team meets Italy at Perth to decide which enters the challenge round in Brisbane against the Aussies.

EXHIBITION HOCKEY

Big Names Keep Turnstiles Clicking

(From CP Dispatches)

Big league clubs are proving to be big drawing cards on the exhibition hockey circuit.

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League trounced Calgary Stampede 7-1 Thursday night before 7,139 fans, the largest crowd ever to witness an exhibition game in Calgary's Corral.

Montreal Canadiens attracted a sellout crowd of 3,244 at North Bay, Ont., when they defeated their Rochester American farm hands 4-1.

Canadiens erupted for three unanswered goals in the final period to take the win. Maurice Richard snapped a 1-1 deadlock with Andre Pronovost and rookie Ralph Backstrom counting the insurance markers. Don Marshall opened the scoring for the Habs in the second period.

Billy Hicke tipped in a goal-mouth pass from Bo Elik for Rochester's only goal.

At Calgary, Gordie Howe, Dunc Fisher, Len Lunde, Gerald Ehmman, Alex Delvecchio, Chuck Holmes and Jerry Melnyk scored for Wings. Sid Finney counted for Calgary midway through the third period.

ICE CHIPS: New York Rangers downed Hershey Bears 7-3 in another Thursday game... Ranger scorers were Bill Gadsby, with two, Dean Prentice, Andy Heberton, Bill Doherty, Larry Popein and Andy Bathgate... Hershey goals went to Tom McCarthy and Eddie Stanekiewicz... Canadiens have assigned defenseman Jack Bonness to Buffalo and Montreal has acquired Ian Cushenan in a straight cash deal from Chicago.

But Fred, Did You Fix Those Divots?

Gorge Vale's Fred Painter captured top honors in the Victoria and District Greenskeepers' Association's annual tournament for a third straight year when he scored a 72 Tuesday at the Cowichan Golf Club.

Runners-up for the Harry Young Trophy was Colwood's Jack Wood, who scored 82, while Lyle Barnes of Cedar Hill placed third with 85.

A. C. Smith, Sr., of Oak Bay, captured the J. A. Sayward (handicap) Trophy while Painter placed second. The inter-club shield went to Oak Bay's three-man team for a second time.

Visitors' prize went to George Chambers while Charles Smith, Jr., of Oak Bay, captured the putting competition.

THEIR LIVES — HIS LIVELIHOOD — DEPEND ON OIL

Imperial contributes to a better life for Canadians through constant leadership in oil...finding new supplies...pioneering more useful products

There are more than five tractors for every six occupied farms in Canada...one motor vehicle for every four Canadians. More than half the homes in Canada are heated by oil. Canadians consume half again as much gasoline today as they did in 1946, nearly five times as much heating and diesel fuels. Imperial has been a major contributor to this better life, more productive economy. In 1946, Canada produced less than one-tenth of its oil needs. In 1947, Imperial discovered oil at Leduc, in Alberta. Today, Canada's own fields produce nearly 60 percent of our requirements. Through its nine refineries from coast to coast...and in its research operations, larger than the rest of the Canadian oil industry put together...Imperial has constantly been able to lead in the development of newer and more useful products...to make a fuller life for Canadians.

Since 1941, gasoline-fueled equipment on farms has risen sharply

TRANQUILIZERS BLAMED

New Defence Plea In Impaired Case

A similarity between the effects of alcohol and tranquilizer-type drugs on a motorist is the defence in an impaired driving case before Saanich police court.

It is believed the first case of its type in Victoria since the use of tranquilizer pills became popular about two years ago.

Allan W. Lutes, 1882 Carnarvon, is charged with impaired driving following an accident in which his car crashed into a power pole in the 1700 block, Cedar Hill Crossroad.

Pending additional medical evidence for the defence, the case was adjourned to next Thursday.

ACCUSED "DAZED" Cons. Frank Briers told the court Lutes was impaired by alcohol, describing his condition after the crash as "dazed." He said the accused told him, "Be a pal, give me a break," when he arrived at the scene.

William Riches, 1710 Cedar Hill Crossroad, said Lutes told him, "Be a pal and get me a taxi," after stepping from his car. When Riches went to call police, Lutes disappeared.

Riches said the accused was found sitting on a box in a wooded area about 250 feet away from the road at the rear of Riches' property.

Dr. John Patterson said Lutes had a nervous condition for which he prescribed a fairly new drug, in use about 1½ years, consisting of chlorpromazine derivatives.

He referred to the drug as a tranquilizer and said it had the effect of relaxing hypertense individuals.

SAME SYMPTOMS The doctor said the drug produces identical symptoms to impairment as alcohol.

Lutes had said he took three of the pills within about one hour previous to the accident. He said he had also drunk a bottle of beer and 1½ ounces of whiskey.

The effect the pills alone would be delayed and the alcohol would enhance the effect of the pills, the doctor said.

Earlier, Dr. Lloyd McEwen, a Crown witness, said he judged Lutes to be impaired by alcohol and thought his estimation of 16 blood-alcohol content would have to be produced by the consumption of about 26 ounces of liquor.

NEGATIVE REPLY He said he asked Lutes if he had taken any drugs and received a negative reply when he examined the accused about an hour after the accident.

"No doctor, in my opinion, can determine whether there is impairment by alcohol by observation alone, without making specific laboratory tests," Dr. Patterson said in reply to a question by defence counsel Robert Monahan.

Mr. Monahan wanted to introduce a pamphlet copy of a discourse by a Washington State university pharmacologist on the subject of tranquilizers and impaired driving.

Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered

WHY I SUPPORT COMMUNITY CHEST

Today: Mayor Percy Scurreh.

"The reasons why anyone should support the Community Chest are so obvious they do not need outlining.

"But basically I am behind the Chest because giving money to one central agency is the only logical way to help all those charities in it.

"The Chest is doing a good job and I thoroughly believe it is worthwhile.

"We cannot be responsible citizens in the full meaning of the term without bending down to help lift up those among us who have been and maybe still are, the victims of disease, want and chance.

Writer Plans To Tell U.K. All About Us

A book dealing with what can be expected in Canada by the potential British immigrant is currently being fact-researched by author-novelist Alistair Horne, 32 of London, England, now in Victoria, in the course of an across-Canada tour.

He will spend about five weeks in B.C. and about three months in Canada gathering material which will be written when he returns home.

His assignment is from Macmillan, the well-known publishing house, "though the idea originated with me," he said.

Mr. Horne has two previous books to his credit, one dealing with a postwar study of Germany and the other with life in the United States as seen through English eyes.

HERE WITH RAF His background includes several years as a foreign correspondent for the Daily Telegraph in Germany and South Africa, plus a stint in Canada during wartime with the RAF.

"No book has yet been written that answers all the questions about Canada that those in the United Kingdom want to know," he said, "I want a cross-section of facts and ideas, with emphasis on the field of culture."

He said one of the main "misconceptions" in England was that Canada was barren of culture.

Another error which needs correction, he went on, was that too many English considered Canada merely an extension of the Old Country.

"It is very, very different. Readjustment is needed, especially for women, even in such small things as the shopping done here once a week compared with the daily run to the local shops."

He is aiming for "an overall" picture of Canadian life.

The book is tentatively scheduled for printing in England in September of 1960.

Victoria MLA Silent On Leadership Fight

Vancouver Reports Bring 'No Comment'

Victoria's MLA George Gregory refused to comment today on a statement by Senator Sydney Smith, president of the B.C. Liberal Party, that Mr. Gregory would not contest leadership at the spring convention.

Mr. Gregory said: "I have no statement to make today. It never occurred to me to make a statement."

Sen. Smith told Canadian Press in Vancouver he had today received a letter from Mr. Gregory advising that "he has changed his mind and will not contest the leadership."

"As he announced he would contest it, I would expect him to announce he was withdrawing," Sen. Smith added.

NO COMMENT

Mr. Gregory asked if he had written such a letter to the party president, said "No comment."

Thursday it was reported in Vancouver that Mr. Gregory was expected to state publicly today he would not run against present Liberal leader Arthur Laing.

NO COMMENT

"Mr. Laing had no comment to make."

According to the Vancouver Canadian Press report, there was an apparent rebuff to Mr. Gregory's policies by provincial Liberals and federal leader Lester Pearson.

A splinter group of Victoria Liberals is reported to have associated Mr. Gregory with anti-labor proposals. In a Victoria speech this week, Mr. Pearson spoke against any anti-labor moves.

REVISED FORMAT IN NEW ISSUE OF LIBERAL PARTY'S MAGAZINE

The Canadian Liberal, official organ of the Liberal Party, has undergone drastic revision in line with a general reorganization of the party following defeat at the last federal election.

The magazine will now appear bi-monthly instead of quarterly and much changed in format, typography, and editorial content.

According to the editorial board the "new" publication "aspires to be a more effective instrument in the service of the Liberal Party, a party which is ever alert and aggressive on all matters 'in the public interest'."

MONTE ROBERTS

So you think I look tired today. Well, I AM tired. The reason is, I wasn't feeling very well Thursday so I went to bed early. In fact, I was asleep before 9 p.m. Unfortunately, though, I was awake by midnight, and I could not go back to sleep. I tried counting sheep, and I tried looking down a straight railway track until the rails met, and finally I tried playing the condensed name game, as discussed here a couple of days ago. The first name that came to mind was that of the president of the United States, and it condensed nicely, either as Dwight D. Eisenhower or Ike. And then I decided to see what I could do with the last president of the United States, and I thought of Harry. But do you know what? I could not think of his surname and went into a mild panic. I thought of the Missouri Waltz, and Boss Prendergast, and Kansas City. But I had a complete mental blackout as far as Harry's last name was concerned. I thought of Roosevelt, and Roosevelt's death, and the swearing-in of Harry what's-his-name, and the "give 'em hell" election campaign, and the order for the bomb on Hiroshima. I thought of everything about this man, from his early morning walks to his bedtime bourbon and branch water, except his surname. I tell you, it is a dreadful feeling, to lie there in the dark, wide-awake, realizing that senility is creeping in. I knew that in the living room was an encyclopedia which could solve the problem; but that would mean I'd wake up my wife and the dog and the cat, and in general throw the household into confusion. It was better for me to lie there and suffer, so suffer I did, until finally, in the grey dawn, merciful unconsciousness overcame me. You think I look tired today? I am indeed, and that's true, man, true.

'CAN'T LIVE ON PROMISES'

New Bid by Labor For Shipyard Jobs

Renewed request for immediate action on allocating naval ships to West Coast yards went forward today to Defence Minister George Pearkes from Victoria Labor Council.

In a letter protesting that "workmen can't live on promises," secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone said the council requests "that the matter of allocation of national defence work to this area be put forward at this time, and construction commenced at the earliest possible date."

The letter referred to correspondence with the minister which commenced in July.

Since then, the council has received a reply from an assistant secretary to the minister, and one from his executive assistant, Richard Roberts.

TO MONTREAL

Mr. Roberts wrote that the lead ship in the new program of destroyer-escorts had been allotted to Canadian Vickers, Montreal, and that the remaining five ships will be allotted in due course.

Mr. Toone's letter to Mr. Pearkes today states:

"In due course" seems a very unsatisfactory answer to the problem which exists in our shipyards. The council would like to point out it is a rather difficult matter for workers to attempt to live on promises.

"More and more craftsmen in shipyards are being forced to seek a livelihood in some other field, and their skill is being lost to the national defence of Canada."

CONFIDENT

A. W. deB. McPhillips, Victoria MP, said here Thursday he is confident two of the new ships will be built in west coast yards, but added it is difficult to say when the remaining contracts will be awarded.

Mr. Toone said he could see no reason why the contracts can't be awarded at once.

Nurses' Role Changes Seen Rotarians Told

The old days of personal care of a patient by one nurse have given way to teams of highly-trained specialists nowadays, Royal Jubilee Hospital Director of Nursing Mary Richmond told Rotarians Thursday.

"The nurse has no time to build up this bond of kindness, understanding, and sympathy," she told the members at a luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel, "which previously benefited both patient and nurse."

The modern nurse, she said, must have some knowledge of chemistry, biology, physics and a variety of technical subjects to deal with the complex, highly technical problem of modern nursing.

This diversification of duties formerly performed by one nurse she termed "fractionalization of patient care" and said that it had become imperative in modern medicine.

Despite the over 6,000 Registered Nurses in B.C., Miss Richmond said, there was still an acute need for nurses in specialized fields.

"There is a very major need for nurses trained in psychiatry," she said, "and we all regret very much that the facilities in this province for the training of nurses in psychiatric nursing are so limited."

Comparing figures showing the number of people in Canada served by one nurse, she said that in this respect we were ahead of the United States.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

DAWSON CREEK, B.C.—Something approaching the old frontier fervor erupted here Thursday afternoon when the three sections of the "PGE Special" rolled into this city in line abreast on ties laid as recently as four days ago.

Rousing cheers from a crowd of about 1,000 greeted Premier Bennett's announcement that the government will use all its power to have the Northern Alberta Railway extension built over the Pine Point-Grimshaw route in western Alberta instead of a proposed eastern route.

More applause saluted Mr. Bennett's statements that a

Representation By Individual For 'Peace' Group

Membership in the newly-formed Society for Peace by Peaceful Means in Victoria will be individual rather than delegate, Mrs. D. Penney, an active member of the society, said today.

"The reason for this is that no one person can speak for a whole group," Mrs. Penney said. She added that members of participating groups are being asked to send liaison officers in order that the widest possible base of community representation can be obtained.

Names of many organizations not already contacted have been submitted by persons attending the inaugural meeting of the society last Tuesday.

"Letters will be sent to these persons during the coming month inviting them to participate," Mrs. Penney said.

Ninety per cent of those attending the inaugural meeting in the Health and Welfare Centre, 1947 Cook Street, signed up as charter members of the society.

TRAFFIC FINES

Allen R. Ford, 4920 Prospect Lake, $10 for not having a tail light.

10 City Riders In 'Scrambles' At Langley

A strong contingent of Victoria riders is entered in the first Canadian National Championship Scrambles for motorcycles to be held on the west coast.

Ten Victorians are among more than 40 contestants from across Canada who will be competing Sunday at Langley over a rugged half-mile course.

Included in the local group is Victoria Motorcycle Club champion Tom Richardson who has won every B.C. and Washington State scramble he has entered except one when he came second.

Also competing will be Bill Smith and Ernie Hills who are rated high.

Sanctioned by the Canadian Motorcycle Association and sponsored by the Aurora Motor Club Incorporated of Vancouver, the meet will be run over a course comprising jumps, grass slopes, water and mud.

Other Victoria entrants are: Wes Morhart, Ben Hircok, Vern Amor, Don Richardson, Dave Moore, Ken Wilkins, and Jim Fracey.

'Technician of Year' Award To B.C. Health Branch Man

Archie Shearer of the Provincial Health Laboratory has received the "Technician of the Year" award from the Pacific Northwest Society of Pathologists, the B.C. Health Department announced today.

The society is a professional society made up of pathologists from Oregon, Washington, Mon-

"Granting of the award to Mr. Shearer marks the first time a Canadian has been honored by the society," a health department official said.

Mr. Shearer graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1949 after serving with the RCAF from 1941 to 1945. He joined the provincial laboratories division of the health branch in 1949 and in 1956 was appointed assistant director.

He will receive his award at the fall meeting of the Pacific Northwest Society of Pathologists at Idaho.

Troller Pushes On After Grounding South of Nanaimo

The Alaska troller Inga continued unaided to Port Angeles, Wash., today after going aground at the entrance to Boat Harbor, about 20 miles south-east of Nanaimo.

Skipper Hans Norbistrath of Port Angeles, who made the trip from Alaska alone aboard the 40-foot boat, sent out a radio call for assistance. However, he managed to back the troller off the reef on the last stages of the flood tide before help arrived.

Later inspection showed that the Inga had suffered damage to the junction between the forefoot and keel.

The grounding occurred just before nightfall Thursday.

Frontier Fervor

In the foreground, Premier grin as he held up a golden spike to be driven by pioneer Wes Harper. A brisk wind flapped a hundred centennial flags in the 68-degree weather. The Premier hesitated only slightly when, in his presentation speech, he slipped and addressed the audience as "Ladies and gentlemen, boys and goats."

Late in the afternoon the inaugural party drove six miles from the city to Pouce Coupe Park for a barbecue dinner. At midnight, they re-boarded their trains for the return to Chetwynd. Today, they head for Fort St. John and the hospitality of the incomparable "Ma" Murray.

Victorians encountered enroute thus far include Bob Chambers, former paymaster of Yarrowas and now in the heavy machinery business in the area, and Bill and Jean Wilson, who took pictures of the spike driving and described it as "an exciting event."

B.C. Grants in Mail School Boards Told

B.C. government grants to provincial school boards are "on the way" and any delay in their delivery is due to routine difficulties, a government spokesman said today.

Vancouver School Board complained earlier this week it had not received the current installment of the grant made every two months by the education department.

An official of Victoria School Board said today he had been assured the instalment was "in the mail" and he had no anxiety about getting it.

The grant is paid in six annual instalments.

The government spokesman said there was no suggestion the grants were being "held back" because government revenues were lagging.

"There may be occasional delays due to routine difficulties," he said, "but these are unintentional."

Georgy Guroly of Sidney, charged with stealing a generator from Sandy's Auto Wrecking, 1023 View, on Sept. 27, was fined $75 or one month in jail by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

Doug Rivette lasted about 2½ hours, covered about six miles in his attempt Thursday to swim Juan de Fuca Strait from the breakwater at Ogden Point to Port Angeles.

He was pulled from the water suffering from a severe leg cramp.

Sandwich anyone? Well, I'll take two if they're made with this freshly baked sandwich bread! A local bakery has increased the length of these neat square-sided loaves. Now they're as long as 60 inches.

Excellent for making up large batches of sandwiches. The loaves are priced at 59 cents each.

Dainty bite-size tea or cocktail sandwiches can be perked up by using tasty endive as a filling. You'll be complimented over and over by your guests if you try it... but you'd better make a big batch, because they'll come back for more. Fresh endive is selling at 25 cents a head.

Light fruit loaves would be another popular treat at a tea party. I know where they're selling at 55 cents and up. Thinly sliced, this fruit cake is truly delicious.

Low in cost and certainly a perfect main course to serve this weekend... that's roast lamb. Cooked to a golden brown, the lamb will prove a hit around your house... you'll see! It's priced at 35 cents a pound.

With that roast, I suggest you have creamed broccoli. It's just 22 cents a pound. Served with a thick cheese sauce it's a meal fit for kings!

The Macs are in town! From orchards around Victoria and in the Okanagan, these world famous apples (Mackintosh by name) are gracing the market stands in all their scarlet beauty. Buy them while they're at the peak of newness at two pounds, 29 cents for locally grown ones and 65 cents a dozen for the Okanagan variety.

Give me a ring at EV 2-3131 soon... I'll tell you where I shopped.

Innes-Schoenfeldt Vows
Spoken at St. Alban's

Rev. Lorne S. Nadiger, of Grace Lutheran Church officiated at the ceremony in St. Alban's Church which united in marriage Sandra Marion, daughter of Mrs. Helene H. Schoenfeldt, Victoria, and the late O.

M. Schoenfeldt, and Norman David Innes, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Innes of Regina. Baskets of pink and bronze chrysanthemums with white spray chrysanthemums decorated the church for the afternoon ceremony. Traditional wedding music was played by Jack Lenaghan.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Maxim Schoenfeldt. Her waltz-length gown, in princess style, was of ivory brocade, with pearls and iridescent sequins outlining the yoke at the scoop neckline. An off-the-face turban of white feathers with face veil completed her costume, and her bouquet was of ivory chrysanthemums, Talsman roses and trailing ivy.

As the bride's only attendant, Miss Joan Lanning, wore a waltz-length dress of taffeta, princess style, in muted bronze shade. Her feather-trimmed headband was of matching material, and she carried a bouquet of feathered carnations, miniature bronze chrysanthemums and ivy.

Ray Innes was best man for his brother, and P. L. Wilkins proposed the toast to the bride at a reception at the home of her mother. The bride's cake, centred on a lace-covered table, was in the shape of a double ring, and was topped with a miniature rosebud bouquet.

The couple left later on a wedding trip to Oregon, the bride wore a rose tweed dressmaker suit with ruby toned mousie turban, and black suede accessories.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Innes plan to make their home in Victoria.

Choir Entertains

Members of Mrs. Roberto Woods' choir travelled from Victoria to give a concert in Mahon Hall, Ganges, under the auspices of United Church Evening Circle at Salt Spring Island. M. Hamilton was the accompanist.

Second part of the program consisted of a "fashion show," including the latest in sack styles, all modelled by men. Finale was a complete wedding scene.

Refreshments were served in the church hall following the concert.

A pancake treat that looks and tastes wonderful—and it's easy to prepare.

Tropicana Foldovers

Here's a new fashion for your fall table, a refreshing new pancake dessert called Tropicana Foldovers. Your favorite package of pancake mix is a ready servant to make preparations for this dessert so easy.

With bananas right in the pancakes and thickened orange sauce and coconut over the top, it's truly a tropical treat. Pancakes for dessert are such a delightful change.

Bake the pancakes quickly and serve while still warm. Your friends will love these "tropical flapjacks." Plan to serve Tropicana Foldovers often this fall.

TROPICANA FOLDOVERS

Orange sauce: 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 cup water, juice of 6 fresh oranges. Pancakes: 1 1/4 cups milk, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon liquid or melted shortening, 1/2 cup mashed banana, 1 cup butter-milk pancake mix.

Coconut. For the orange sauce, place all ingredients in a saucepan; blend. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring frequently.

For pancakes, place milk, egg, shortening and mashed bananas in shaker or glass jar. (If melted shortening is used, add after pancake mix.) Add butter-milk pancake mix and shake vigorously 10 to 15 times or until batter is fairly smooth. Pour onto hot, lightly greased griddle to make 8 pancakes. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

To serve, fold in half; top with orange sauce and garnish with coconut. Makes 4 servings.

Abdomen Out of Line?
Take Two Exercises

Q.—"About a year ago I acquired a protruding abdomen. I have taken lots of exercises in order to reduce it. I have lost 1 1/2 inches from my waistline but the lower half of my abdomen is just as rounded as before. Do you have any exercises that would do the job? I have to be careful of my back because a year ago I tore the muscle that is along my spine while playing tennis."

A.—Do not take the exercises below without first getting your doctor's opinion. However, since many women have the same figure difficulty, I will print two exercises today.

1. Lie on the floor on your back, legs straight and arms resting on the floor. Raise the left leg up (heel only six inches from the floor and knees stiff). As you lower the left leg, raise the right. Continue. In other words, one leg moves up as the other moves down. After beginning this exercise, do not touch the heels to the floor or raise them more than six inches from the floor. This is splendid for the lower abdomen.

2. Stand with your back toward the wall, arms stretched overhead, elbows straight and the backs of the hands touching the wall. Raise your right leg and lower your right arm. Touch fingertips to leg. Return leg and arm to place. This is important—at this point, stretch. Do the same thing with the left arm and leg and continue alternating right and left.

Q.—"I am 5 feet 5 inches tall. How much should I weigh? I am 30 years old. My hips and legs are far too large."

A.—If you have a medium frame, you should weigh about

136 pounds. If you are very much overweight, you will have to count calories. If you are not overweight, you can decrease your measurements by special exercise.

Q.—"Please tell me what is wrong with my measurements. I am 48 years old, weigh 148 pounds, and am 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall. My bust measures 38 inches, waist 32, hips 41."

A.—You are just about the right weight if you have a medium frame. If you have very small bones, you are around 15 pounds overweight. You should concentrate on waist slimming exercises since this is the measurement most out of line. Also, add a couple of hip slimming exercises.

Q.—"I am 20 years old and my bustline is disgusting. Please tell me if bust creams are corrective or if they are harmful."

A.—I do not think you should use anything of the sort without first checking with your doctor.

DEAR ABBY...

Bring Them Out Into the Open!

EXPOSURE
PROTECTION

TORONTO (CP) — An American who thinks many children are over-protected says they can be toughened against mental illness if they're exposed to difficult emotional experiences when they're young.

Dr. Edward G. McGarvan told the Ontario Public Health Association's annual meeting Monday that shielding children from emotional strains is resulting in a population susceptible to mental illness when it is inevitably exposed to shocks later in life.

Ladies' Aid, Church of Our Lord, rummage sale, Orange Hall, Saturday, 9 a.m.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you won't think this is much of a problem, but it has kind of got me down and I want some advice—to find out whether I am doing right or not. First, I want you to know I am a happily married woman and the mother of five children. We live near the railroad tracks, and when I am out in the yard hanging clothes this train goes by and the engineer always waves to me and blows me kisses. I have gotten to look for him at a certain time and I go out there to wave back and blow kisses to him. It tickles me but I sometimes feel guilty. Do you think it is dangerous and he might take it wrong and should I stop it? BLOWING KISSES.

DEAR BLOWING: He is probably just a friendly engineer who is only having a little fun. Just to set the record straight, however—get the five kids out in the yard (never mind the husband) and all of you wave to the engineer and blow him kisses.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend has four kids and she still takes off her wedding ring when she goes into a cocktail bar and tries to pass herself off as a single girl. Things are tough enough for us single girls without having to put up with competition from the married ones. Please print this for all the married barflies who use the same trick. Thanks a lot.

SINGLE. DEAR SINGLE: If a married woman has no respect for her marriage, a little thing like a wedding ring won't stop her circulation.

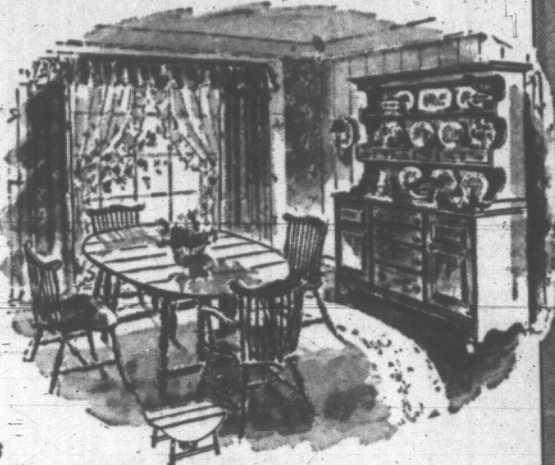

DEAR ABBY: My problem is different from most that I see in your column. How do you get rid of a guy? This one fellow has been following me around since last December and I can't shake him. He is shorter than me and is very ugly. He keeps asking me what he said to make me mad. If he really did say something, I wouldn't mind, but he hasn't. He's making a pest of himself, calling me up and asking all the kids what he did to make me mad. How can I get the message to him that I can't stand him without hurting his feelings?

DOUBLE DISGUSTED. DEAR DOUBLE: There is no way a girl can tell a boy she

by Bob Barnes

"Your silly old car runs all lop-sided."

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

THE LULL BEFORE THE WEDDING:

When a lad presents his heart's desire with a ring, what do we do then until the wedding? I am the lad's mother. What are our obligations from here on?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

The engagement period gives the two families a chance to become acquainted and, if given a good start, should go happily. You, as the young man's parents, make the first approach. If both families live in the same locality, you could first phone to see when it would be convenient for you to "drop around to say how-do-you-do to the parents of our son's girl." If they live elsewhere, a nice, friendly letter is in order. After the first meeting, the relationship will take its natural course. It would be a lovely gesture for you to entertain with a tea soon so that your son's fiancée and your friends can meet each other. There is nothing much more to do until plans are made for the wedding. You and your husband might like to offer to give the rehearsal dinner the night before the wedding. It can be large or small, as you wish. I advise conferring with the bride's mother as to the type of dress to wear for the wedding and reception.

GIFT FOR HER "STEADY":

The boy I've been dating for a year is entering the service. Would it be proper for me to give him a present and, if so, what do you suggest?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

If you are engaged, and I assume you are not, or if you both seem to have an unspoken understanding about your future, then it would be all right to give the boy something. If you do, I suggest something inexpensive and rather impersonal such as a shaving kit, shoe or clothing brush, hair brushes, money belt, fountain pen or a good ball point pen, which might be a strong hint to get some letters coming your way.

Loan Exhibits, Treasures at Fair

Of the nine rooms which will be on display at the third annual Antique Fair in the Empress Hotel Ballroom, next Thursday and Friday, Oct. 9 and 10, seven will contain exhibits of antique furniture and treasures arranged by the dealers. These items will be for sale. There will also be a display of books. On view also will be a doll's house of colonial design, built by the late Lieut. Col. L. E. Broome of this city. A loan exhibit of special interest in British Columbia's centennial year, will be a drawing room interior decor of 1858—containing furniture of historic interest and with mannequins dressed in authentic costumes. None of the items in this loan exhibit will be for sale.

A competition of flower arrangements in antique containers supplied by the antique dealers will be another attraction. The Fair, arranged by the Victoria Antique Dealers' Association, is again being sponsored jointly by the women's committee to the Victoria Symphony Society and the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. All proceeds from ticket sales will be divided equally between these two societies. Tickets may be obtained from members of the two sponsoring committees, from any local antique dealer, at the Art Gallery or at the door during the fair. Chairman of the arrangements committee is Mrs. Robert

Brothers Jailed For Safe Robbery

Two brothers pleaded guilty to a $16,500 safe robbery charge in Victoria County Court Thursday afternoon and were sentenced to prison.

Robert Davis, 84 Cadillac, received a three-year term, and Roy Davis, 2528 Selwyn Road, Langford, a two-year sentence for breaking into the real estate and insurance office of Walter Conder at Sooke on Feb. 9 and removing a safe.

The safe contained $1,123 in cash, $5,332 worth of cheques and money orders, most of which were negotiable, and $10,000 worth of non-negotiable share certificates.

PLEA CHANGED

The brothers first elected to go to trial by judge and jury but pleaded guilty instead and were sentenced by Judge J. B. Clearhue.

Roy Davis also received two other two-year terms, concurrently with the first sentence, for being in possession of explosives and an offensive weapon "for a purpose contrary to the public peace."

This weapon consisted of two socks filled with metal weights and a bicycle chain wrapped in friction tape.

RECORD

These charges were laid following his arrest the day after the robbery.

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie requested a heavier sentence for Robert Davis in view of his past record, which included armed robbery, escaping.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Thursday: Robert R. Metter, 410 Quebec, $10 for passing a stop sign.

Thomas B. Crease, 1075 St. David, $35 for careless driving.

FALSE PRETENCES

3-Year Term As Deaf Man Pleads Guilty

NANAIMO (CP)—Proceedings were conducted in silence in Nanaimo police court Thursday when Roy Greenwood Priestley pleaded guilty to obtaining money by false pretences and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

Priestley is totally deaf. The charge was written on a piece of paper by the magistrate.

The accused asked for three months of freedom on his own recognizance so that he could pay back the money he had obtained.

He was accused of passing a worthless $75 cheque at a Nanaimo jewelry store. Police said he will face similar charges at Duncan and Victoria next week.

Court was told that Priestley was sentenced to two years on a similar offence in Nanaimo in 1953.

Park Sale Protest

Wilfred Cain, Vancouver Island Little League director, Thursday wrote city council protesting sale of Royal Athletic Park as a shopping centre site.

A local real estate agent said recently another would be made for the park.

'Papa' Bottles Venturing Far and Wide

NANAIMO (CP)—Operation "Papa" is progressing favorably, says Alan Dodimead, Pacific Oceanographic Group scientist.

The plan involves dropping note-enclosed bottles from Canadian weather ships about 1,000 miles offshore Vancouver Island.

Finding of these bottles, for which a dollar is paid, indicates to oceanographers here the course of the west wind drift of the North Pacific ocean, hitherto unknown by scientists at the Pacific Biological station.

Bottles have been picked up from as far south as California to Alaska and the Aleutians.

About 27,000 have been dropped so far by oceanographers stationed on the weather ships Stonetown and St. Catharines.

"Dropping" began in August, 1957, and is expected to conclude sometime next year. About 1,000 are let go every six weeks.

They travel an average of three to five miles a day.

Inexperience Blamed in Death Of City Driver

ALBERNI—Inexperience was blamed for the death of Istvan Varro, 21, Hungarian immigrant and Victoria CPR employee, who died in hospital Tuesday in Port Alberni from injuries suffered in a car crash near here Sept. 24.

Verdict reached by a coroner's jury after an inquest into the death stated the fatal accident on the Alberni summit was due to excessive speed and inexperience of the driver. Varro held a learner's licence he had been granted just a few days before the accident.

'Exempt' Status For 331 City Rooming Houses

City Engineer James Garnett said today that 331 rooming house operators with light-housekeeping units have registered at City Hall.

"That's more than 50 per cent of the number we believe exist in the city," he said.

Purpose of the registration, which closed Tuesday, is to establish present operators as an exempt class under new standards set for light-housekeeping units recently.

Registration allows present operators to make normal renovations without having to bring units into complete conformity with the higher standards that will apply to new units.

Swamp Rumors 'Lot of Nonsense'

Persistent rumors that the new Queen Alexandra Solarium building on Arbutus is located on swampy ground were labelled as a "lot of nonsense" by hospital administrator J. S. Holdstock today.

"The pipe is repaired now and there has been no further trouble of any kind."

He was answering rumors that the new building was constructed on poorly-drained soil criss-crossed with underground springs that have caused small

Golden Spike For North's Golden Era

By PETE LOUDON

DAWSON CREEK—Busy Dawson Creek took time out Thursday for a golden spike driving ceremony which officially marks the arrival here of the Pacific Great Eastern's road of steel linking the city to the coast markets.

Dawson Creek, a pioneer farming community which some thought should really have been located in nearby Alberta, has become the Chicago of the North. It will no longer be remote from the populous coast.

The B.C. cabinet and 400 other PGE inaugural trip visitors proved to Dawsonites the rest of B.C. is vitally interested in them.

1,000 Flock to Meet First Train

There were 1,000 persons out to meet the PGE. It was a warm, 68 degrees afternoon, with a stiff wind sweeping the area. It wasn't stiff enough, however, to halt speechmaking ceremonies. And it didn't bother hundreds of children who were given centennial and paper engineers hats. Many of them ran to meet the trains riding back at considerable risk of loss of limb on the railway cars.

The Dawson Creek Legion pipe band, bearing up remarkably after the rigor of an earlier ceremony Wednesday night at Chetwynd, was on hand for the arrival, as well as a high school band.

Old-timer Wes Harper drove a golden spike at the railroad, assisted by Premier Bennett.

The premier made presentations to 100-year-old Grannie Scheck, to Mr. Harper, and pioneers Joe Walton and Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Pierce.

The premier stole the show with his announcement that the Wenner-Gren development of power resources on the Peace was to start within two years. But Dawson Creek was vitally interested also in what we had to say about the building of another railway—a proposed extension of the joint CPR-CNR Northern Alberta Railway between Pine Point and the Grimshaw, a town in the Alberta section of the Peace River Basin.

A community of 1,200 smiles, Dawson set about celebrating as soon as the three-part train arrived. Cheerfully overlooking the fact it was 90 minutes late neighboring Pouce Coupe joined in the party, treating the visitors to a barbecue.

The premier said his government is pressing Ottawa for the railway. Other interests want the Pine Point railway to run north along the east boundary of Alberta, cutting out the Peace.

It will open vast mineral resources to development and by water connection, will serve the whole Arctic area.

Dawson Creek, called the Centennial City because it was incorporated this year, now links the PGE with the Northern Alberta Railway. With the Pine Point Railway also linked via Grimshaw, the city will grow to be capital of what the premier calls the Peace River Empire.

14 New Buildings Due Next Year

He pointed out in the last six years provincial grants to Dawson Creek have grown from $94,000 to $776,953. Dawson told the visitors next year it will build 14 new buildings, ranging from banks, hospitals and factories to an area of a total value of over $6,000,000.

Another $1,000,000 in new construction was started this year. The figures don't include new homes.

The city lies in an area of unlimited potential oil and natural gas, lumber, pulp and paper, coal, limestone, and it is the centre of the grain and seed growing and cattle raising of the Peace.

One of the jobs ahead next year is the construction of a station for the PGE.

Reaching here was apparently more of a risky business than was openly voiced. The new road bed needs a great deal more work in places.

Trainmen admitted there were "lots of new grey hairs" earned in the job of bringing the inaugural trains from Chetwynd, 60 miles west.

The route will be served in future by a three-times-a-week Budd car service and occasional freights as required by the growing shipment of wheat to coast elevators. The roadbed wasn't meant for the three heavy trains which rolled over the route Thursday.

Average speed between Chetwynd and Dawson Creek was less than five miles per hour for some long stretches. The heavy cars bore down on the new road in places, driving the ties right out of sight. In other sections mudboiled up alongside the tracks.

"The route requires more ballast and when you come this way again, you'll see the ties," a PGE official said.

It was indicated the roadbed now in use was rushed through.

B.C. ELECTION? YES! ABOUT 1960 OR 1961

By Staff Reporter

DAWSON CREEK—Rumors of an early provincial election, possibly in 1959, were denied by Premier Bennett here Thursday.

The premier, speaking at a ceremony to welcome the PGE inaugural train to Dawson Creek, said he had heard lots of rumors he was to make an announcement about a provincial election.

"I will make that announcement now," he said. "It will be in 1960 or 1961."

PGE TOUR BRIEFS

By PETE LOUDON, Times Staff Reporter

The Peace River country probably produces more mud than any other part of B.C. and most of it lands on peoples' cars so there was a laugh when Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi was introduced at Dawson Creek.

Several voices called:

The B.C. Cabinet took time for its regular meeting Thursday, this time using the Dawson Creek City Hall and council chamber.

It was described by the premier as the "most northerly" cabinet meeting.

You meet Victorians everywhere, Bob Doble, former city traffic engineer, is a PGE

PGE Will Push On to Yukon Says Bennett

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)

—Premier Bennett says the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will not stop its drive northward at Fort St. John in Northeastern British Columbia.

The premier, aboard the northward inaugural run of the PGE to Fort St. John and Dawson Creek, said the provincially owned railroad will be "pushed to the boundaries of the Yukon."

"The railway," he said, "is too important to the economy of the province to be content with its progress so far."

Mr. Bennett did not elaborate on his remark.

"When the premier says the road must reach Dawson by a certain date, it has to get there."

A crew of close to 30 sectionmen were tending one soft spot in the line as the inaugural trains passed. They were almost the only sign of civilization, except for a little of empty spike kegs and at least three dead horses long at the trackside.

The country between Chetwynd and Dawson Creek differs vastly from the terrain near the coast. Forests contain spindly poplars, all wearing golden leaves of autumn. The land is rolling or flat. It seems one could be travelling through northern Ontario, then nearer to Dawson Creek it begins to look like the Prairie.

Rumors have attached themselves to the appearance of retiring B.C. Electric vice-president W. C. Mainwaring on the same train as Wenner-Gren executive Bernard Gore.

Wenner-Gren power development now is going ahead and no doubt is seeking a top man.

Guesses are Mr. Mainwaring has been approached.

CNR president Donald Gordon telegraphed the premier on occasion of the PGE arrival at Dawson Creek, regretting his absence and sending best wishes.

Premier Bennett said the PGE has been operating at a profit since 1954 and this year will pay hundreds of thousands in interest charges and to depreciation reserve.

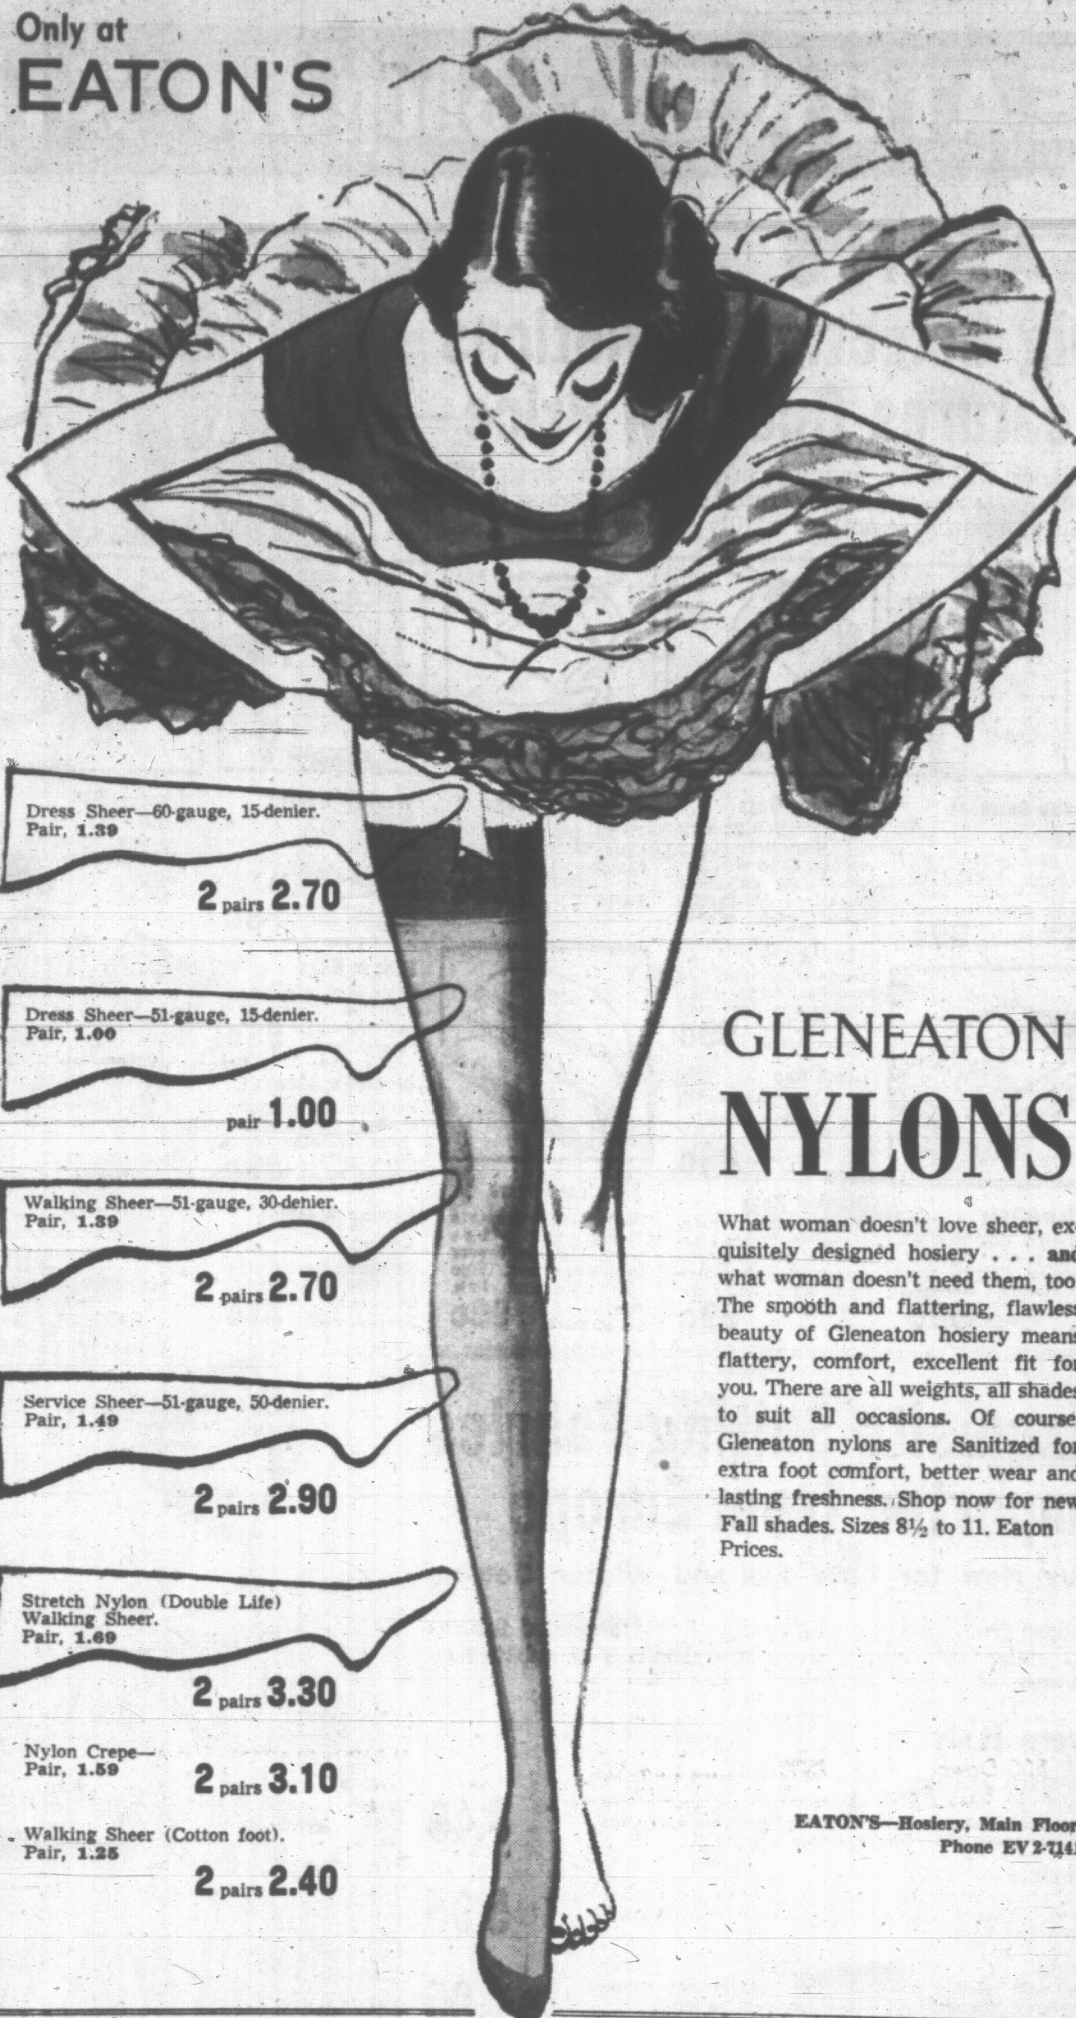

"In August, freight traffic on the PGE was approximately 20 per cent higher than in August, 1957."

Rampaging Fire Battled by 500

MONROVIA, Calif. (AP)—Firefighters massed today to halt the spread of flames which have destroyed eight homes and blackened 800 acres of brush surrounding this foothill city.

Five hundred men battled all night against the blaze, started by three children playing with matches. Officials estimated 200 families were evacuated from their threatened homes in the northern section of the Monrovia-Duarte area about 20 miles east of Los Angeles.

Beirut Rioters Put Clock Back

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The Lebanese Army opened fire on mobs demonstrating against the new government Thursday night and today in action that turned the page back to the bloodiest days of Lebanon's summer rebellion.

At least three civilians were reported killed and 12 wounded in the past 24 hours of violence. The wounded included a woman.

U.S. forces were not involved in the bitter street clashes.

The Lebanese army fired on the demonstrating crowds under orders to crush efforts of supporters of ex-president Camille Chamoun to keep Beirut in turmoil.

Supporters of the old regime were angry at the appointment of former rebel leader Rashid Karami as premier and his refusal to include pro-Chamoun ministers in his new cabinet.

Thursday night 1,000 of them, led by the pro-Chamoun Christian Phalangists, marched on the defence ministry. They ignored repeated commands to halt the march and the soldiers opened fire.

That clash killed three civilians and wounded five, it was reported.

This morning the demonstrators were back on the street, this time some 4,000 strong. An army patrol backed by two armored cars and two tanks tried to tear down a Phalangist barricade. The demonstrators fought back and again the army opened fire.

At least seven persons were reported wounded in this action. The mob, led by stick-wielding youths, heaped burning rubble against the main road leading into Beirut from the north in an attempt to cut off traffic into the capital and enforce a general strike.

Slayer on Loose

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An insane slayer who vowed death to his victims' family escaped Thursday night from Arizona State Hospital. Police roadblocks were set up in the Tucson area around homes of persons threatened by Paul Whalen after the 1957 slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Huff.

Wengren To Start By 1960

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Reporter

DAWSON CREEK — Premier Bennett capped his victory march into the Peace River country Thursday with the announcement the multi-million-dollar Wenner-Gren development of the Rocky Mountain Trench definitely will go ahead. He said "this tremendous project"—a lake nearly 300 miles long on the Peace River system, which has a power potential of 4,000,000 horsepower—"will create a great new prosperity in this country... a great future and a new era of wealth."

Part of a plan by Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, the hydro project will attract industry here.

LONGEST MAN-MADE

It would mean creation of the longest man-made lake in the world, twice that of the man-made lake at the Grand Coulee dam in Washington.

Past estimates of the cost of developing the lake have been in the neighborhood of $400,000,000 and $600,000,000.

The proposed power development was first announced in the legislature two sessions ago.

Premier Bennett said designing for the power project will begin next year, and actual construction will start in 1960.

Details on anticipated pulp mill and railway construction are not yet available, the premier said.

But it was r'ably learned the dam project will include two actual water storage systems, one near Hudson Hope (70 miles north of the PGE divisional point Chetwynd).

World School For Canada?

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Canada should embark immediately on a large-scale program to educate thousands of youths from underdeveloped countries in Canada, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell told the Canadian Club Thursday night.

By expanding universities and training the required professors, he said, Canada would provide herself with the facilities she will need in 10 to 20 years for the bulging enrolments that will result from the post-war booming birthrate.

There were minor clashes but no casualties.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord Jesus, as the Father lives in Thee and Thou in Him, do Thou live in me and I in Thee. As I go about the duties of the common day, keep ever before my mind the certainty of God, the reality of His presence, the sovereignty of His will, and the adequacy of His salvation. So may I walk in the light as Thou art in the light, and so may my life in time be a preparation for eternity. Amen.

Bennett on Suit: 'It's Up to Paper'

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett said here Thursday, he may go ahead with a threatened $1,000,000 suit against the Vancouver Province.

He commented on the matter on his arrival here aboard the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's inaugural run from North Vancouver to Fort St. John and Dawson Creek.

The premier first threatened the newspaper with court action Tuesday after a story from Victoria suggested the government proposed to wipe out its direct debt by transferring the original borrowings for the B.C.

'NEVER OPEN SCHOOLS' IF THEY'RE INTEGRATED

GOVERNOR FAUBUS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—

Governor Oval E. Faubus said today "I will never open the public schools as integrated institutions."

The governor made the comment after releasing a statement at a press conference.

He opened by reading a prepared statement which contained the sentence, "the only question is whether the Little Rock public school facilities can be used by the Little Rock private school corporation, or not used at all."

Reporters asked him to clarify this and Faubus said he would never open the public schools on an integrated basis.

GM Still Closed Over Local Issues

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors and the United Auto Workers reached agreement on a three-year master contract Thursday night, but GM's automotive empire remained shut down today by a strike of its 250,000 UAW members.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther hailed the new national agreement as "good for the nation, good for the UAW and good for GM," but he added that GM workers at 126 plants across the country were authorized to remain on strike to back up local demands.

A company-wide walk-out against GM preceded the new pact by 12 hours. Before that, there had been a rash of wild-cat strikes.

Both Reuther and GM Vice-President Louis G. Seaton expressed hope that local grievances would be settled quickly so GM could get into full production of 1959 cars and trucks.

The UAW reached agreement with Ford Sept. 17 and with Chrysler Wednesday.

The new agreements give auto workers wage increases of 24 to 30 cents an hour during the next three years. Pensions are increased; severance pay provided for those whose jobs are moved or abolished, and layoff pay increased.

General Motors' average hourly wage is the highest in the industry—$2.62 compared with $2.52 at Ford and $2.33 at Chrysler. The latter company said its wage scale is lower because it hasn't as many skilled-labor classifications as the other two firms.

De Gaulle in New Plea To Algerians

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (AP)—Premier de Gaulle today appealed to Algeria's rebels to halt their bloody insurrection and promised Algerians a new and better life—economically and politically.

But close ties with France must remain, he said.

De Gaulle charted a five-year program for improving the living and working conditions of the 8,000,000 Moslems in Algeria. He promised them more and better jobs and housing, land distribution and greater educational opportunities.

He said elections will be held in Algeria within two months under the same conditions as in Metropolitan France. And he declared: "At least two-thirds of these representatives must be Moslems."

Power Commission to continue liability account.

"It all now depends on the next move of The Province," he said. "It is quite possible we may go ahead with the suit."

Ike Has Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower enters Walter Reed Army Hospital here this afternoon for an annual physical checkup.

Both teams travelled by air, but only the Braves deserved the fare.

Wonder what year they'll begin to retrench in the Rocky Mountain Trench.

Fire Destroys School Block At Shawnigan

Boys, Masters Assist Firemen

By DON INGHAM

Raging flames early today destroyed a three-storey $100,000 classroom block at Shawnigan Lake School for Boys.

There never was hope of saving the building. Efforts of Shawnigan Volunteer Fire Department, school masters, and senior students were devoted to saving other buildings near by.

One of these was the school rifle range. At one time three of the 15 masters of the school were playing a hose on the fire from the roof of the building, and were standing directly over a large quantity of live ammunition.

Terrific heat from the blazing frame and stucco building kept firefighters from approaching closer than 50 feet. Flames leaped hundreds of feet in the air, and were seen miles from the school, situated at the north end of the lake about a mile from the village of Shawnigan Lake.

Most difficult job was saving the school hobby shop, a large building with one corner a bare 20 feet from the roaring flames. Damage was limited to scorched areas on the roof, broken windows, and a few charred window frames on the side nearest the fire.

The alarm was turned in at midnight by E. R. Larsen, 33, headmaster at the school since July, and Rev. R. F. Stephenson, school chaplain.

"I was first attracted by a red glow in the sky, plainly visible from my house," Mr. Larsen said. "I called the Shawnigan fire department, and set off the school alarms."

Nothing Saved; Cause Unknown

Fire Chief Eric Gibson and his 12-man volunteer crew said he knew on arrival at the fire that there was no hope of saving the building.

"Otherwise we had no problems," he said. "We drew water from the lake, and senior boys carried material from the hobby shop. Nothing was saved from the burning building, but there were no lives in danger. We don't yet know the cause."

Destroyed were desks, chairs, text books, and physics and chemistry laboratory equipment, but the loss was fully covered by insurance, and plans for rebuilding will be launched almost immediately.

He said another site has been chosen tentatively on the 150-acre school property.

The school chapel, on a hill overlooking the classroom building, was brushed by the flames, but damage appeared limited to badly scorched doors. Morning devotions were held in the chapel as usual, sharp at 9 a.m.

Mr. Larsen, who resigned his post as executive assistant to Defence Minister George Pearkes to take the position of headmaster, praised volunteer firemen and his own staff and students at a special assembly at the school this morning after chapel.

U.S. Controls Thor in U.K.

LONDON (UPI)—The United States has claimed complete control over Thor missiles sent to British bases and not just over their atomic warheads, official sources disclosed today.

It had been assumed previously that American control would be limited to the atomic warheads of missiles sent here under a mutual assistance agreement.

The U.S. stand now makes it clear that Britain will not be in a position to use the missiles without specific American consent.

WINNERS AS GLUM AS LOSERS

No War Dance for Braves

NEW YORK (CP)—The winners seemed just as glum as the losers today as New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves prepared for the third game of the World Series.

The Braves—with a 2-0 clutch on the series over the Yankees—arrived in town by plane Thursday night but showed no sign of rejoicing.

Perhaps the Milwaukee heroes were a little put off because nobody met them at the airport except reporters and photographers and a few autograph seekers.

Manager Fred Haney, however, showed cheer, beaming as he said of Thursday's 13-5 Milwaukee win:

DON LARSEN

... 'can he stop Braves?'

"We can't get enough runs to suit me."

He later named Bob Rush, 32-year-old righthanded pitcher, to pitch Saturday's third World Series game against Yankees' Don Larsen of perfect game fame.

Rush had a 10-6 won-lost record in regular season play. This will be his first World Series appearance although he has been in the majors 11 years. He started 20 games this year and completed five.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel said his men aren't discouraged and he showed signs of chewing the ear off a questioner who suggested the situation was "desperate."

THIS WORLD OF OURS People and Things

CANADA WARNED

Political, Economic Satellite

TORONTO (CP)—An executive of A. V. Roe Canada Limited today warned Canada will become a political and economic satellite of the United States if it doesn't develop its own defence system.

W. R. McLachlan, vice-president in charge of administration and co-ordination, called for more basic research in a speech to the Ontario government's annual industrial development conference.

"Let's face it," he said, "in the days ahead Canada will have to undertake projects more costly and more advanced or abdicate her present position as a respected partner in the free world."

"The alternative is to turn the job of national security over to someone else. If we do that, we can forget all our wonderful dreams and hopes of Canadian nationhood. We will become a mere political and economic satellite of our friends to the south."

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet Saturday 1.30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a work bee and flowering shrub survey at the Beaver Lake tree plot.

Senior members of the group will meet Sunday 10.30 p.m. at the same place for an expedition to the Highland district.

The detective, Alfred Spinoza, had been tipped about a party in a 12th-floor suite of a West 100th Street hotel. He went there, a trombone cane under his arm, and got inside.

Among those present, he said, were two men and a girl stripteaser. The trio was charged with possession of marijuana. Others at the affair were released.

Police said marijuana users value the wine-impregnated weed for its increased kick. Devotees call it "instant marijuana."

LONDON—The hula hoop has whizzed across the Atlantic. Some newspapers Thursday devoted whole pages to instructions on hoop manoeuvrability. Television stations juggled programs to give demonstrations.

ROCHESTER, Minn. — Chain smoker Harold W. Scott listened for six minutes Thursday while a London hypnotist tried to talk him out of the cigarette habit by transatlantic telephone.

Five seconds after hanging up Scott was dragging on a cigarette.

Scott says he smokes three packs a day. He plans to call hypnotist Henry Blythe in England again.

MIDDLESBOROUGH, Eng. — A mysterious benefactor in overalls showed up at a Middlesborough church today and gave away a bagful of money for the second straight day.

The mystery donor called at the Anglican convent of the Holy Rood Thursday and handed the mother superior a bag containing £1,050.

Today, he cycled up to the All Saints Church in overalls and handed Rev. W. Walker a brown paper parcel containing £550.

FIRE

was up all night, and the senior boys would have been if we had let them."

"I also want to congratulate the junior boys on their discipline in staying in their rooms while the fire was burning." (He said later the juniors—total enrolment at the school is 172—remained in their dormitories in another building and went in shifts to windows overlooking the fire.)

He listed rooms in the various other buildings at the school that will be used as classrooms, saying "they are nearly ready for you."

A staff member was in Victoria at 9 a.m. today with a van to pick up replacements for the lost textbooks. Mr. Larsen said 50 desks ordered several weeks ago should be here shortly, and D. Mason Hurley of Shawigan Beach, Hotel offered the school tables and chairs to assist in furnishing classrooms.

"We shall build a better block on a better site, and will continue to work to make our school the best in the country," he told the assembly. "The loss of the building will cause us difficulty, but we will manage if we all co-operate."

TIDYING UP

Considerable work must be done in tidying the grounds. Dead charred embers cover the ground hundreds of feet from the smouldering remains of the burning building, and machine tools carried from the threatened hobby shop had been hastily dropped on the quadrangle lawn.

Mr. Larsen said the school's own fire brigade of students went to work just as volunteers arrived, and pitched in immediately under direction of Fire Chief Gibson.

It burned fiercely for more than two hours, and firemen did not consider it safe to leave until 3.30 a.m.

BUSY TIME

The fire meant a busy night for the Shawigan firemen, since they had fought a bush fire on the Shawigan-Cobble Hill Road from 6 to 10.30 p.m. Thursday, and had barely finished cleaning and sorting equipment when they got the second alarm.

The fire came closely on the heels of the blaze that levelled Malahat Chalet Tuesday morning, and the Milnes Landing High School fire of Sept. 18.

School buildings were started in 1926, after the school had become established in more humble quarters at Shawigan Lake. It is operated as a non-profit-making organization.

and the other near Finlay Forks.

A cheer went up as Premier Bennett made the announcement on a flag-draped platform here where about 1,000 people had assembled to welcome the PGE inaugural trip to the Peace.

"Here in the Peace River you have all the energies that make a nation great—great forestry and great farmlands—from this day forward you will have a new era."

Later, he told reporters: "The power development in the Trench will help Alberta as well." He said power could be sold for development of the Canadian North.

COST $10,000,000
The surveys carried out by Wenner-Gren have been rapid, and carried out at a cost of up to $10,000,000.

"Contrary to public opinion" the premier said, the Wenner-Gren interests have no concession on mineral development in the Trench area.

He said the firm is proceeding with surveys which are studying a possible railway to the Yukon through the Trench. He said it could either be a monorail or the usual type.

Fire Kills 20

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A three alarm fire in the Hyde Building in downtown Spokane Thursday night killed 19 firefighters and a 71-year-old woman elevator operator. None were badly affected. The fire caused extensive damage to stores and offices located in the building.

Prices Up To Record ... Again

Food, Services

Hike Living Cost

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs rose to a new high during August with the consumer price index climbing by two-fifths of a point to a record 125.6 on Sept. 1 from 125.2 on August 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The second consecutive monthly rise resulted mainly from higher prices for streetcar and bus fares, hospital rates in Ontario and Quebec, price boosts for gasoline, eggs, bread, citrus fruits, canned juices, along with rents and home ownership costs.

These offset some declines such as those in clothing, 1958 passenger cars, meats, apples and fresh vegetables.

The prices yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, now stood at 2.3 points higher than a year previous.

While living costs have been rising, average wages paid also appear to have increased, though they may not have kept pace with the rise in costs.

WAGES DIP

Average wages in industrial plants have increased from $66.35 a week Jan. 1 to $70.76 June 1, though there was a slight dip from this high to $70.63 July 1.

While most parts of the consumer price index showed gains during August, the largest was in the miscellaneous column, entitled other commodities and services, which rose to a record 131.5 Sept. 1 from 130.6 Aug. 1.

The food column also edged ahead by three-tenths of a point to a near-record 122.9.

Also up three-tenths to a record 139.4 was the shelter column, reflecting higher costs for rents and prices for new homes.

The clothing column dropped one-tenth of a point to 109.5.

'Unto the Least of These....'

SOME time ago Margaret McClung, secretary-manager of the Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island, phoned her friend and mine, Evelyn Miller, to see if Mrs. Miller could help out for a morning at the cerebral palsy clinic.

Some of the regular volunteer workers weren't available, the work was piling up and the clinic was, short-handed, she explained.

Mrs. Miller couldn't think of a quick and graceful way to decline, appreciated the demands that friendship sometimes makes and figured one morning's work wouldn't kill her.

Stott

She's been going to the clinic ever since. "Until you've seen the clinic in operation," she said, "you have no idea what can be done for these children. How would you like to look the place over?"

So I went.

The old brown shingle annex east of the Jubilee Hospital tennis courts doesn't look very prepossessing from the outside. Its appearance is more attractive and cheerful when you go in.

The rooms where the small victims of cerebral palsy are treated and go to school are finished in pastels. In them, in addition to special equipment, such as narrow little chairs with boarded sides to stop small uncontrolled bodies from falling out, are toys and devices calculated to take a child's fancy. The atmosphere is bright and encouraging. The children are not over-protected.

The pamphlet they give you at the clinic explains that cerebral palsy is the general term for a group of disorders caused by damage to the brain.

Its most obvious effect is usually a disturbance of the motor functions, severe or slight, which impair the victim's movements. Some cannot walk, some walk improperly, and some cannot control the movements of their hands and arms.

Emotional and intellectual retardation may also be present and in addition, speech, eye and hearing defects are quite commonly encountered. The brain damage may cause seizures or fits. No two cases are exactly alike and some physically impaired may be mentally bright.

There is no cure for cerebral palsy, but most cases can be helped. When one series of muscles has no governing brain section to control them, other muscles can often be developed to compensate in part for the deficiency.

I watched the small ones taking primary work in the bright school room. Fifteen attend daily, eight more come three mornings a week. Mrs. Zelma Swanson, with the infinite patience of a teacher dedicated to her specialized work, was conducting a course in simple counting. The children had raised a pallisade fence of colored toothpicks on a plasticine base around a simulated field. The pupils left their desks and assembled around the table holding the model. Some dragged their feet in awkward gait. Some lurched to their places. Some had to be helped by another volunteer. The impression created by them was not one of pity for muscular struggles, but one of gratification that they walked at all.

And if small minds have very little powers of concentration, the children were interested enough to be absorbed in counting the colored toothpicks, to be concerned with the efforts of their fellows to count. They seemed happy.

I watched Miss Mary Adam administering physiotherapy to a boy of four or five whose leg braces had been removed. When she asked him to stand and show how well he was progressing, the little fellow struggled to his feet, smiled at me and flung his arms around the physiotherapist's neck in genuine affection.

I looked in on Mrs. Olga Kiernan who was teaching another little lad to use his hands, to put pegs in holes they fitted and to place articles in assigned places.

It was one of the more difficult cases, Mrs. Kiernan explained, because the child seemed to have impaired hearing. Specialists were to examine him this weekend and determine if, or how well, he could hear.

Later we saw him with Mrs. Rose Bannister, the speech therapist, who was trying to help him change the sounds that came from his mouth into words.

With an inflated balloon pressed to her lips and to his she was trying to make him conscious of the vibrations of speech. She placed his little hand on her throat to help him catch the idea that sounds came from that organ.

As we passed down a hall we saw some husky adults in a waiting room.

"Those," explained my guide, "are our friends—the fire-fighters. They come in turn from the fire departments of Greater Victoria on their days off to drive our Bunny Buses, picking up the children and taking them home. We think it's kind of wonderful the way they give their time and the way they handle the youngsters."

My guide told me also that the association has a physiotherapist, Mrs. K. Stone, who visits cases in their homes, a social worker, Mrs. Carol McKinnon, and another teacher, Mrs. Mary Hiscock, who cares for the more severely handicapped three mornings a week.

And the whole operation is carried on by funds derived 78 per cent from the public and 22 per cent from a federal health grant.

The Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island would like to show this community what it is doing. That's why it is holding an open house from 2 to 4.30 tomorrow afternoon. It's worth a visit to cheer you up by showing you what people can do for little ones who are afflicted.

You'll be welcome.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By STANLEY BURKE

Shadow of Isolationism

NEW YORK—Is there danger of a wave of isolationism sweeping the United States if she is abandoned by her friends on the China issue? Is there danger that abandonment might give new influence to the views of military extremists in Washington?

These are among the main arguments being advanced by U.S. allies to justify their support, such as it is, of American Far East policy. The arguments explain why the majority of the Western nations voted in the General Assembly not to consider the question of the admission of Communist China, thus flouting the wishes of over one-third of the members of the Assembly.

It's argued, however, that if the U.S. is abandoned at this time that two reactions might be triggered. One is that the latent spirit of isolationism, the "Fortress America" concept might seize the American public. It would be said that NATO, the UN, and foreign aid had all failed to win support for the U.S. It would be said that the American public had been cheated out of billions of dollars by unscrupulous, ungrateful people overseas, and it would be added that it's impossible to "buy" friends.

I was told by a senior official that it was feared that the result of this could be that the U.S. would reach an understanding with the Soviet Union which would, in effect, give the Russian Bear freedom to prowl unopposed by the U.S. as long as he did not molest American vital interests.

Furthermore, it's said that the U.S. might pull out of the UN. Mr. Dulles hinted at such a possibility in his opening speech before the General Assembly when he recalled that the U.S. did not back the League of Nations after the First World War, and he said he hoped that American support would be valued as an asset by the members of the present World Organization.

This statement was described to me as "the top of an iceberg," a mere hint of what might become a nightmare possibility.

The other possible reaction to American "alone-ness" in the Far East—alone with 600,000,000 Chinese—might be to increase the influence of American military extremists. The argument here is that military planners, finding the U.S. abandoned by her allies, would wage a "strike now while we have the advantage" policy.

It's known that a school of thought exists in Washington which favors a knockout blow before Russia wrests military supremacy from the U.S. It's said that the U.S. has clear cut military superiority at the present time, but that in two or three years time, when Russian intercontinental missiles are operational, that supremacy will be lost.

As a matter of fact there is a frightening community of interests between the "strike first" people in the U.S. and Chiang Kai-shek's thinking because, for him, too, the sands are running out.

It could well be "now or never" for Chiang and many people at the UN feel that the build-up of his forces in the off-shore islands was done deliberately to provoke a showdown. I am told on high authority that this build-up was done with the encouragement of senior U.S. officers on Formosa. Whether it was known, however, to senior officers in Washington is uncertain.

Further, it's said that the U.S. might

Fines Not Paid, Prison Threatens Traffic Culprit

Dave Paul, West Saanich Reserve, was given to Saturday to pay a total $85 in traffic fines in Saanich police court Thursday, but may still go to jail for defaulting on $90 in fines set last April.

He was charged the same on both appearances, careless driving and driving without a licence. Prosecutor Ken Murphy drew the court's attention to a warrant for Paul's arrest for not attending to the earlier fines, for which he was given time to pay.

The warrant will proceed if the fines go unpaid, Magistrate H. C. Hall told the accused.

"If you do this again you may go to jail without the option of a fine," he said.

The Day YOU Were Born

William David Woodley, 1515 Clover Street, won a trophy for being the most valuable player in the minor hockey league last winter. This year he will be playing in the Bantam team.

David is also a baseballer in the Fairfield Little League. He is in grade 8 at Central.

On the day he was born:

The Ss. General Longfitt sailed into Esquimalt Harbor with some very special passengers. They were Canadian survivors of the Hong Kong campaign, released after three and a half long years of prison camp.

There were 2,500 liberated POW's aboard the General Longfitt, of whom 10 were Canadians. All reported on brutal treatment in the camps and punishment for trivial offences.

Angus MacInnis, CCF, advocated larger old age pensions and the doing away of the means test.

The ninth Victory Loan quota for B.C.-Yukon area was 69 million dollars, 12 million more than the eighth loan.

The Kiwanis Club promised to raise $40,000 for the new Jubilee Hospital maternity wing.

The sum of $64,367.85 had been raised in the Community Chest campaign with $18,000 still to go.

The lifting of the gasoline rationing in August sent gas station sales up 52 per cent over the year before.

Bette Davis, in "The Corn Is Green," was playing at the Capitol, and "Sons of Lassie," made on location here, was at the old Atlas.

The date? Wednesday, October 3, 1945.

Roomer Pays Fine of $75 For Assault

Martin Kent, 423 Luxton, was fined $75 in city police court Thursday when he was found guilty of assaulting a fellow roomer, George Alfred William Burkmur, in the latter's room Sept. 3.

"In this country people don't kick one another in the stomach," Magistrate H. C. Hall said to Kent.

Burkmur, 59, said he was talking to Colin Rycroft, 929 North Park, when Kent came to his door and told Burkmur he wanted to talk with him outside. The complainant said Kent accused him of having Kent thrown out of previous lodgings and was trying to do the same again.

Burkmur said Kent hit him across the head twice, struggled with him and rolled on a porch until Kent untangled himself and rose, then kicked Burkmur in the stomach three times.

Rycroft said he witnessed the assault.

Kent did not offer evidence in his own defence.

Choose Right Bulbs for Indoors

When it comes to the point of choosing bulbs for growing in pots for winter decoration indoors, the home gardener may be faced with a dilemma.

He may have potted up bulbs of daffodils and tulips from his garden in previous years with little success, and yet he would like to try again.

The fact is that certain varieties of daffodils and tulips will respond to the indoor conditions and produce beautiful blooms in pots. Others will not.

Varieties which flower early outdoors, will flower early indoors, but a late variety cannot be made to flower early.

The variety King Alfred is a good one for growing in pots (forcing, as it is called) but there are so many others more lovely than it seems a pity not to grow some of them.

Among the early flowering large trumpet daffodils are Golden Harvest, Magnificence, Carlton and Flower Record.

Midseason small cupped kinds with fine wide perianth (petals) are Firetail with scarlet cup, Snow Princess with yellow cup and orange margin, and Verger—orange cup and white perianth.

The large flowered doubles, such as Texas and Twink are not always successful for the amateur as pot grown plants, since they need cooler conditions to keep the stems sturdy enough to hold the heavy blossoms.

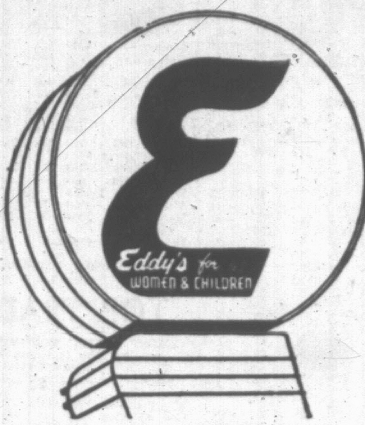

Some of the cluster types, however, such as Cheerfulness, Geranium, Scarlet Gem and Odorus rugulosus are excellent. For the first year or two, the beginner should stick to the single and double early varieties of tulips for pot culture. They have shorter stems, and are thus more satisfactory.

Look for such names as Crown Imperial, Prince of Austria, Sunburst, Mme. Testout and El Toreador.

There are of course many other suitable varieties. These names are intended only as a guide for beginners.

MONTE ROBERTS

So you think I look tired today. Well, I AM tired. The reason is, I wasn't feeling very well Thursday so I went to bed early. In fact, I was asleep before 9 p.m. Unfortunately, though, I was awake by midnight, and I could not go back to sleep. I tried counting sheep, and I tried looking down a straight railway track until the rails met, and finally I tried playing the condensed name game, as discussed here a couple of days ago. The first name that came to mind was that of the president of the United States, and it condensed nicely, either as Dwygthenower or Ikenower. And then I decided to see what I could do with the past president of the United States, and I thought of Harry. But do you know what? I could not think of his surname and went into a mild panic. I thought of the Missouri Waltz, and Boss Frendergast, and Kansas City. But I had a complete mental blackout as far as Harry's last name was concerned. I thought of Roosevelt, and Roosevelt's death, and the swearing-in of Harry what-his-name, and the "give 'em hell" election campaign, and the order for the bomb on Hiroshima. I thought of everything about this man, from his early-morning walks to his bedtime bourbon and branch water, except his surname. I tell you, it is a dreadful feeling, to lie there in the dark, wide-awake, realizing that senility is creeping in. I knew that in the living room was an encyclopedia which could solve the problem; but that would mean I'd wake up my wife and the dog and the cat, and in general throw the household into confusion. It was better for me to lie there and suffer, so I suffered I did, until finally, in the grey dawn, merciful unconsciousness overcame me. You think I look tired today? I am indeed, and that's true, man, true.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Carrying an unlicensed shotgun in his car brought a $20 fine to James Miller Longland, 1386 Hastings, when he pleaded guilty to the charge in Saanich police court Thursday. Charge was brought as contravention of the Game Act by warden Jack Lenfestey. John Falk, 76, of 1017 Balmoral, suffered a fractured skull when he fell to the sidewalk at Douglas and Discovery Thursday afternoon. X-rays were taken at Royal Jubilee Hospital, and while findings were being awaited, the man disappeared. He was picked up at his home and returned to hospital.

Official Opening Of New Solarium Later This Month

Official opening of the new Queen Alexandra Solarium, Gordon Head, has been set tentatively for October 25 officials announced today. Members of the Junior Auxiliary to the Solarium will be on hand to guide visitors through the ultra-modern children's hospital. The Junior League will hold a tag day Saturday in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

B.C. Grants in Mail School Boards Told

B.C. government grants to provincial school boards are "on the way" and any delay in their delivery is due to routine difficulties, a government spokesman said today. Vancouver School Board complained earlier this week it had not received the current instalment of the grant made every two months by the education department. An official of Victoria School Board said today he had been

Totem pole carver, Chief Mungo Martin, and his 16-year-old granddaughter, Shirley Hunt, were scheduled to return to Victoria today from attendance at the Canadian Tourist Association convention at Quebec City. Chief Mungo completed carving of a small totem in a demonstration of his native art during the convention. A lot of fish and pluffe. Police Chief John Blackstock said in effect today when informed Vancouver police in future will be allowed to remove their hats while riding in low-slung cars. He admitted that the long, low look of new model cars made it difficult for tall policeman to get in and out and sometimes hats were knocked off, "but I'm not going to see them going around without hats." The hat-cum-car ceiling situation, he stated, "is not that bad."

Two naval ratings each were fined $15 in city police court today for being minors in possession of liquor. Both were found with wine on the street. Gary M. Simpson, HMCS Margaree, told police at the time the wine was a gift "from his mother," court was told. The other accused was Arthur McDonald, HMCS Naden.

assured the instalment was "in the mail" and he had no anxiety about getting it. The grant is paid in six annual instalments. "The government spokesman said there was no suggestion the grants were being "held back" because government revenues were lagging. "There may be occasional delays due to routine difficulties," he said, "but these are unintentional."

'CAN'T LIVE ON PROMISES'

New Bid by Labor For Shipyard Jobs

Renewed request for immediate action on allocating naval ships to West Coast yards went forward today to Defence Minister George Pearkes from Victoria Labor Council. In a letter protesting that "workmen can't live on promises," secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone said the council requests "that the matter of allocation of national defence work to this area be put forward at this time, and construction commenced at the earliest possible date." The letter referred to correspondence with the minister which commenced in July. Since then, the council has received a reply from an assistant secretary to the minister, and one from his executive assistant, Richard Roberts. TO MONTREAL

Mr. Roberts wrote that the lead ship in the new program of destroyer-escorts had been allotted to Canadian Vickers, Montreal, and that the remaining five ships will be allotted in due course. Mr. Toone's letter to Mr. Pearkes today states: "In due course" seems a very unsatisfactory answer to the problem, which exists in our shipyards. The council would like to point out it is a rather difficult matter for workers to attempt to live on promises. "More and more craftsmen in shipyards are being forced to seek a livelihood in some other field, and their skill is being lost to the national defence of Canada."

Entertainment by the Adeline Duncan dancers will be featured at the first meeting of the season of the Sir James Douglas School PTA Wednesday 8 p.m. at the school. Topics for discussion include the Schools Insurance Act and the fall fair and teachers will be on hand to meet parents. Four coastal navigation aids have been restored to service after repairs, the Department of Transport marine agent here reported today.

Back in service are: Dillon Rock light, near Prince Rupert; Cyril Rock light, Texada Island; Stamp Narrows light, Alberni Inlet, and Alberni light, at the entrance to Soanass River. Problems of the electrical industry in Victoria will be discussed at a meeting of the Victoria Electrical Association Monday 8.15 p.m. in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric building. Second portion of the program will consist of a talk on "Some of the Dangers of Electrical Installations" by City Electrical Inspector M. F. Schwartz. Gyorgy Guroly of Sidney, charged with stealing a generator from Sandy's Auto Wrecking, 1023 View, on Sept. 27, was fined $75 or one month in jail by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

Confident A. W. deB. McPhillips, Victoria MP, said here Thursday he is confident two of the new ships will be built in west coast yards, but added it is difficult to say when the remaining contracts will be awarded. Mr. Toone said he could see no reason why the contracts can't be awarded at once.

Nurses' Role Changes Seen Rotarians Told

The old days of personal care of a patient by one nurse have given way to teams of highly-trained specialists nowadays, Royal Jubilee Hospital Director of Nursing Mary Richmond told Rotary members Thursday. "The nurse has no time to build up this bond of kindness, understanding, and sympathy," she told the members at a luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel, "which previously benefited both patient and nurse." The modern nurse, she said, must have some knowledge of chemistry, biology, physics and a variety of technical subjects to deal with the complex, highly technical problem of modern nursing. This diversification of duties formerly performed by one nurse she termed "fractionalisation of patient care" and said that it had become imperative in modern medicine. Despite the over 6,000 Registered Nurses in B.C., Miss Richmond said, there was still an acute need for nurses in specialized fields. "There is a very major need for nurses trained in psychiatry," she said, "and we all regret very much that the facilities in this province for the training of nurses in psychiatric nursing are so limited." Comparing figures showing the number of people in Canada served by one nurse, she said that in this respect we were ahead of the United States.

Something approaching the old frontier fervor erupted here Thursday afternoon when the three sections of the "PGE Special" rolled into this city in line abreast on ties laid as recently as four days ago. Rousing cheers from a crowd of about 1,000 greeted Premier Bennett's announcement that the government will use all its power to have the Northern Alberta Railway extension built over the Pine Point-Grimshaw route in western Alberta instead of a proposed eastern route.

More applause saluted Mr. Bennett's statements that a

Vancouver Reports Bring 'No Comment'

Victoria's MLA George Gregory refused to comment today on a statement by Senator Sidney Smith, president of the B.C. Liberal Party, that Mr. Gregory would not contest leadership at the spring convention.

Mr. Gregory said: "I have no statement to make today. It never occurred to me to make a statement." Sen. Smith told Canadian Press in Vancouver he had today received a letter from Mr. Gregory advising that "he has changed his mind and will not contest the leadership."

"As he announced he would contest it, I would expect him to announce he was withdrawing," Sen. Smith added.

NO COMMENT

Mr. Gregory asked if he had written such a letter to the party president, said "No comment."

Thursday it was reported in Vancouver that Mr. Gregory was expected to state publicly today he would not run against present Liberal leader Arthur Laing.

NO COMMENT

Mr. Laing had no comment to make.

According to the Vancouver Canadian Press report, there was an apparent rebuff to Mr. Gregory's policies by provincial Liberals and federal leader Lester Pearson.

A splinter group of Victoria Liberals is reported to have associated Mr. Gregory with anti-labor proposals. In a Victoria speech this week, Mr. Pearson spoke against any anti-labor moves.

REVISED FORMAT IN NEW ISSUE OF LIBERAL PARTY'S MAGAZINE

The Canadian Liberal, official organ of the Liberal Party, has undergone drastic revision in line with a general reorganization of the party following defeat at the last federal election.

The magazine will now appear bi-monthly instead of quarterly and much changed in format, typography, and editorial content.

According to the editorial board the "new" publication "aspires to be a more effective instrument in the service of the Liberal Party, a party which is ever alert and aggressive on all matters 'in the public interest'."

Ten Victorians are among more than 40 contestants from across Canada who will be competing Sunday at Langley over a rugged half-mile course.

Included in the local group is Victoria Motorcycle Club champion Tom Richardson who has won every B.C. and Washington State scramble he has entered except one when he came second.

Also competing will be Bill Smith and Ernie Hills who are rated high.

Sanctioned by the Canadian Motorcycle Association and sponsored by the Aurora Motor Club Incorporated of Vancouver, the meet will be run over a course comprising jumps, grass slopes, water and mud.

Other Victoria entrants are: Wes Morhart, Ben Hircok, Vern Amor, Don Richardson, Dave Moore, Ken Wilkins, and Jim Fracey.

tana, Idaho, B.C. and Alberta. The award is made annually to a technician considered to be outstanding in his work and integrity who is judged to have done most for medical technologists as a group.

FIRST CANADIAN

"Granting of the award to Mr. Shearer marks the first time a Canadian has been honored by the society," a health department official said.

Mr. Shearer graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1949 after serving with the RCAF from 1941 to 1945. He joined the provincial laboratories division of the health branch in 1949 and in 1956 was appointed assistant director.

He will receive his award at the fall meeting of the Pacific Northwest Society of Pathologists at Idaho.

Troller Pushes On After Grounding South of Nanaimo

The Alaska troller Inga continued unaided to Port Angeles, Wash., today after going aground at the entrance to Boat Harbor, about 20 miles south-east of Nanaimo.

Skipper Hans Norbistrath of Port Angeles, who made the trip from Alaska alone aboard the 40-foot boat, sent out a radio call for assistance. However, he managed to back the troller off the reef on the last stages of the flood tide before help arrived.

Later inspection showed that the Inga had suffered damage to the junction between the forefoot and keel. The grounding occurred just before nightfall Thursday.

link with the Yukon would be completed "much sooner than people realize" and that drawings for a massive hydroelectric dam in the Rocky Mountain Trench were well under way, with construction to start in 1960.

A picture not unlike that of the old daguerreotypes at Craigellachie took shape when the lead train chuffed to a halt. Camera-bugs and small boys swarmed all over the diesel engine as the historic scene was recorded. In the foreground, Premier

Bennett wore his broadest grin as he held up a golden spike to be driven by pioneer Wes Harper. A brisk wind flapped a hundred centennial flags in the 68-degree weather. The Premier hesitated only slightly when, in his presentation speech, he slipped and addressed the audience as "Ladies and gentlemen, boys and goats."

Later in the afternoon the inaugural party drove six miles from the city to Pouce

Coupe Park for a barbecue dinner. At midnight, they re-boarded their trains for the return to Chetwynd. Today, they head for Fort St. John and the hospitality of the incomparable "Ma" Murray.

Victorians encountered en route thus far include Bob Chambers, former paymaster of Yarrow and now in the heavy machinery business in the area, and Bill and Jean Wilson, who took pictures of the spike driving and described it as "an exciting event."

Innes-Schoenfeldt Vows
Spoken at St. Alban's

Rev. Lorne S. Nadiger of Grace Lutheran Church officiated at the ceremony in St. Alban's Church which united in marriage Sandra Marion, daughter of Mrs. Helene H. Schoenfeldt, Victoria, and the late O.

M. Schoenfeldt, and Norman David Innes, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Innes of Regina.

Baskets of pink and bronze chrysanthemums with white spray chrysanthemums decorated the church for the afternoon ceremony. Traditional wedding music was played by Jack Lenaghan.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Maxim Schoenfeldt. Her waltz-length gown, in princess style, was of ivory brocade, with pearls and iridescent sequins outlining the yoke at the scoop neckline. An off-the-face turban of white feathers with face veil completed her costume, and her bouquet was of ivory chrysanthemums, Tullman roses and trailing ivy.

As the bride's only attendant, Miss Joan Lanning, wore a waltz-length dress of taffeta, princess style, in muted bronze shade. Her feather-trimmed headband was of matching material, and she carried a bouquet of feathered carnations, miniature bronze chrysanthemums and ivy.

Ray Innes was best man for his brother, and P. L. Wilkins proposed the toast to the bride at a reception at the home of her mother. The bride's cake, centred on a lace-covered table, was in the shape of a double ring, and was topped with a miniature rosebud bouquet.

As the couple left later on a wedding trip to Oregon, the bride wore a rose-tinted dressmaker suit with ruby-toned mouse turban, and black suede accessories.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Innes plan to make their home in Victoria.

Choir Entertains

Members of Mrs. Roberto Woods' choir travelled from Victoria to give a concert in Mahon Hall, Ganges, under the auspices of United Church Evening Circle at Salt Spring Island. M. Hamilton was the accompanist.

Second part of the program consisted of a "fashion show," including the latest in sack styles, all modelled by men. Finale was a complete wedding scene.

Refreshments were served in the church hall following the concert.

A pancake treat that looks and tastes wonderful—and it's easy to prepare.

Tropicana Foldovers

Here's a new fashion for your fall table, a refreshing new pancake dessert called Tropicana Foldovers. Your favorite package of pancake mix is a ready servant to make preparations for this dessert so easy.

With bananas right in the pancakes and thickened orange sauce and coconut over the top, it's truly a tropical treat. Pancakes for dessert are such a delightful change.

Bake the pancakes quickly and serve while still warm. Your friends will love these "tropical flapjacks." Plan to serve Tropicana Foldovers often this fall.

TROPICANA FOLDOVERS

Orange sauce: 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 cup water, juice of 6 fresh oranges. Pancakes: 1½ cups milk, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon liquid or melted shortening, ½ cup mashed banana, 1 cup butter-milk pancake mix.

Coconut. For the orange sauce, place all ingredients in a saucepan; blend. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring frequently.

For pancakes, place milk, egg, shortening and mashed bananas in shaker or glass jar. (If melted shortening is used, add after pancake mix.) Add butter-milk pancake mix and shake vigorously 10 to 15 times or until batter is fairly smooth. Pour onto hot, lightly greased griddle to make 8 pancakes. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

Abdomen Out of Line?
Take Two Exercises

Q—"About a year ago I acquired a protruding abdomen. I have taken lots of exercises in order to reduce it. I have lost 1½ inches from my waistline but the lower half of my abdomen is just as rounded as before. Do you have any exercises that would do the job? I have to be careful of my back because a year ago I tore the muscle that is along my spine while playing tennis."

A—Do not take the exercises below without first getting your doctor's opinion. However, since many women have the same figure difficulty, I will print two exercises today.

1. Lie on the floor on your back, legs straight and arms resting on the floor. Raise the left leg up (heel only six inches from the floor and knees stiff). As you lower the left leg, raise the right. Continue. In other words, one leg moves up as the other moves down. After beginning this exercise, do not touch the heels to the floor or raise them more than six inches from the floor. This is splendid for the lower abdomen.

2. Stand with your back toward the wall, arms stretched overhead, elbows straight and the backs of the hands touching the wall. Raise your right leg and lower your right arm. Touch fingertips to leg. Return leg and arm to place. This is important—at this point, stretch. Do the same thing with the left arm and leg and continue alternating right and left.

Q—"I am 5 feet 5 inches tall. How much should I weigh? I am 30 years old. My hips and legs are far too large."

A—"If you have a medium frame, you should weigh about

136 pounds. If you are very much overweight, you will have to count calories. If you are not overweight, you can decrease your measurements by special exercise.

Q—"Please tell me what is wrong with my measurements. I am 48 years old, weigh 148 pounds, and am 5 feet 7½ inches tall. My bust measures 38 inches, waist 32, hips 41."

A—"You are just about the right weight if you have a medium frame. If you have very small bones, you are around 15 pounds overweight. You should concentrate on waist slimming exercises since this is the measurement most out of line. Also, add a couple of hip slimming exercises.

Q—"I am 20 years old and my bustline is disgusting. Please tell me if bust creams are corrective or if they are harmful."

DEAR ABBY...

Bring Them Out Into the Open!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you won't think this is much of a problem, but it has kind of got me down and I want some advice—to find out whether I am doing right or not. First, I want you to know I am a happily married woman and the mother of five children. We live near the railroad tracks, and when I am out in the yard hanging clothes this train goes by and the engineer always waves to me and blows me kisses. I have gotten to look for him at a certain time and I go out there to wave back and blow kisses to him. It tickles me but I sometimes feel guilty. Do you think it is dangerous and he might take it wrong and should I stop it? BLOWING KISSES.

DEAR BLOWING: He is probably just a friendly engineer who is only having a little fun. Just to set the record straight, however—get the five kids out in the yard (never mind the husband) and all of you wave to the engineer and blow him kisses.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend has four kids and she still takes off her wedding ring when she goes into a cocktail bar and tries to pass herself off as a single girl. Things are tough enough for us single girls without having to put up with competition from the married ones. Please print this for all the married barflies who use the same trick. Thanks a lot.

DEAR SINGLE: If a married woman has no respect for her marriage, a little thing like a wedding ring won't stop her circulation.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is different from most that I see in your column. How do you get rid of a guy? This one fellow has been following me around since last December and I can't shake him. He is shorter than me and is very ugly. He keeps asking me what he said to make me mad. If he really did say something, I wouldn't mind, but he hasn't. He's making a pest of himself, calling me up and asking all the kids what he did to make me mad. How can I get the message to him that I can't stand him without hurting his feelings?

DOUBLE DISGUSTED. DEAR DOUBLE: There is no way a girl can tell a boy she

PROTECTION

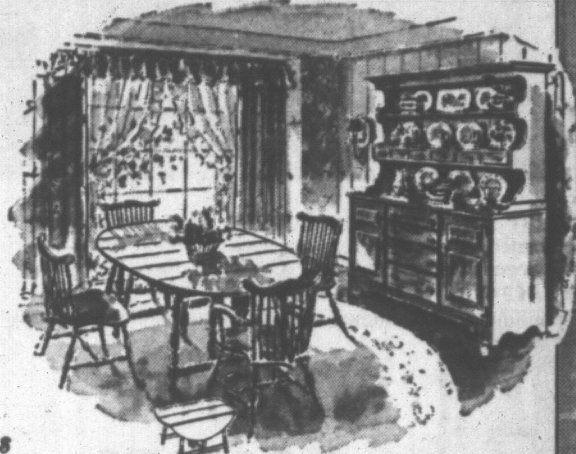

TORONTO (CP)—An American who thinks many children are over-protected says they can be toughened against mental illness if they're exposed to difficult emotional experiences when they're young.

Dr. Edward G. McGarvan told the Ontario Public Health Association's annual meeting Monday that shielding children from emotional strains is resulting in a population susceptible to mental illness when it is inevitably exposed to shocks later in life.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther hailed the new national agreement as "good for the nation, good for the UAW and good for GM," but he added that GM workers at 126 plants across the country were authorized to remain on strike to back up local demands.

A company-wide walk-out against GM preceded the new pact by 12 hours. Before that,

No War Dance for Braves

NEW YORK (CP)—The winners seemed just as glum as the losers today as New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves prepared for the third game of the World Series.

The Braves—with a 2-0 clutch on the series over the Yankees—arrived in town by plane Thursday night but showed no sign of rejoicing.

Perhaps the Milwaukee heroes were a little put off because nobody met them at the airport except reporters and photographers and a few autograph seekers.

Manager Fred Haney, however, showed cheer, beaming as he said of Thursday's 13-5 Milwaukee win:

DON LARSEN
... can he stop Braves?

"We can't get enough runs to suit me."

He later named Bob Rush, 32-year-old righthanded pitcher, to pitch Saturday's third World Series game against Yankees' Don Larsen of perfect game fame.

Rush had a 10-6 won-lost record in regular season play. This will be his first World Series appearance although he has been in the majors 11 years. He started 20 games this year and completed five.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel said his men aren't discouraged and he showed signs of chewing the ear off a questioner who suggested the situation was "desperate."

Boys, Masters Assist Firemen

By DON INGHAM

Raging flames early today destroyed a three-storey $100,000 classroom block at Shawnigan Lake School for Boys.

There never was hope of saving the building. Efforts of Shawnigan Volunteer Fire Department, school masters, and senior students were devoted to saving other buildings near by.

One of these was the school rifle range. At one time three of the 15 masters of the school were playing a hose on the fire from the roof of the building, and were standing directly over a large quantity of live ammunition.

Terrific heat from the blazing frame and stucco building kept firefighters from approaching closer than 50 feet. Flames leaped hundreds of feet in the air, and were seen miles from the school situated at the north end of the lake about a mile from the village of Shawnigan Lake.

Most difficult job was saving the school hobby shop, a large building with one corner a bare 20 feet from the roaring flames. Damage was limited to scorched areas on the roof, broken windows, and a few charred window frames on the side nearest the fire.

The alarm was turned in at midnight by E. R. Larsen, 33, headmaster at the school since July, and Rev. R. F. Stephenson, school chaplain.

"I was first attracted by a red glow in the sky, plainly visible from my house," Mr. Larsen said. "I called the Shawnigan fire department, and set off the school alarms."

Nothing Saved; Cause Unknown

Fire Chief Eric Gibson and his 12-man volunteer crew said he knew on arrival at the fire that there was no hope of saving the building.

"Otherwise we had no problems," he said. "We drew water from the lake, and senior boys carried material from the hobby shop. Nothing was saved from the burning building, but there were no lives in danger. We don't yet know the cause."

Destroyed were desks, chairs, text books, and physics and chemistry laboratory equipment, but the loss was fully covered by insurance, and plans for rebuilding will be launched almost immediately.

Mr. Larsen said a site has been chosen tentatively on the 150-acre school property.

The school chapel, on a hill overlooking the classroom building, was brushed by the flames, but damage appeared limited to badly scorched doors. Morning devotions were held in the chapel as usual, sharp at 9 a.m.

Mr. Larsen, who resigned his post as executive assistant to Defence Minister George Pearkes to take the position of headmaster, praised volunteer firemen and his own staff and students at a special assembly at the school this morning after chapel.

"I must compliment you all on the superb way you handled yourselves," he said. "The staff

Bennett on Suit:
'It's Up to Paper'

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett said here Thursday he may go ahead with a threatened $1,000,000 suit against the Vancouver Province.

He commented on the matter on his arrival here aboard the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's inaugural run from North Vancouver to Fort St. John and Dawson Creek.

The premier first threatened the newspaper with court action Tuesday after a story from Victoria suggested the government proposed to wipe out its direct debt by transferring the original borrowings for the B.C. Power Commission to contingent liability account.

"It all now depends on the next move of The Province," he said. "It is quite possible we may go ahead with the suit."

It would mean creation of the longest man-made lake in the world, twice that of the man-made lake at the Grand Coulee dam in Washington.

Past estimates of the cost of developing the lake have been in the neighborhood of $400,000,000 and $600,000,000.

The proposed power development was first announced in the legislature two sessions ago.

Premier Bennett said designing for the power project will begin next year, and actual construction will start in 1960.

Details on anticipated pulp mill and railway construction are not yet available, the premier said.

But it was rapidly learned the dam project will include two actual water storage systems, one near Hudson Hope (70 miles north of the PGE divisional point Chetwynd) and the other near Finlay Forks.

A cheer went up as Premier Bennett made the announcement on a flag-draped platform here where about 1,000 people had assembled to welcome the PGE inaugural trip to the Peace.

"Here in the Peace River you have all the energies that make a nation great—great forestry and great farmlands—from this day forward you will have a new era."

Later, he told reporters: "The power development in the Trench will help Alberta as well." He said power could be sold for development of the Canadian North.

The surveys carried out by Wenner-Gren have been rapid, and carried out at a cost of up to $10,000,000.

"Contrary to public opinion," the premier said, the Wenner-Gren interests have a concession on mineral development in the Trench area.

He said the firm is proceeding with surveys which are studying a possible railway to the Yukon through the Trench. He said it could either be a monorail or the usual type.

World School For Canada?

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Canada should embark immediately on a large-scale program to educate thousands of youths from underdeveloped countries in Canada, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell told the Canadian Club Thursday night.

By expanding universities and training the required professors, he said, Canada would provide herself with the facilities she will need in 10 to 20 years for the bulging enrolments that will result from the post-war booming birthrate.

Slayer on Loose

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — An insane slayer who vowed death to his victims' family escaped Thursday night from Arizona State Hospital. Police roadblocks were set up in the Tucson area around homes of persons threatened by Paul Whalen; after the 1957 slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Huff.

CANADA WARNED

Political, Economic Satellite

TORONTO (CP) — An executive of A. V. Roe Canada Limited today warned Canada will become a political and economic satellite of the United States if it doesn't develop its own defence system.

W. R. McLachlan, vice-president in charge of administration and co-ordination, called for more basic research in a speech to the Ontario government's annual industrial development conference.

"Let's face it," he said, "in the days ahead Canada will have to undertake projects more costly and more advanced or abdicate her present position as a respected partner in the free world."

"The alternative is to turn the job of national security over to someone else. If we do that, we can forget all our wonderful dreams and hopes of Canadian nationhood. We will become a mere political and economic satellite of our friends to the south."

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet Saturday 1.30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a work bee and flowering shrub survey at the Beaver Lake tree plot.

Senior members of the group will meet Sunday 10.30 p.m. at the same place for an expedition to the Highland district.

De Gaulle In New Plea To Algerians

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (AP) — Premier de Gaulle today appealed to Algeria's rebels to halt their bloody insurrection and promised Algerians a new and better life—economically and politically.

But close ties with France must remain, he said.

De Gaulle charted a five-year program for improving the living and working conditions of the 8,000,000 Moslems in Algeria. He promised them more and better jobs and housing, land distribution and greater educational opportunities.

He said elections will be held in Algeria within two months under the same conditions as in Metropolitan France. And he declared: "At least two-thirds of these representatives must be Moslems."

Bloodiest Day On Cyprus In 3 Years

NICOSIA (Reuters) — One British woman was killed, another was injured and three soldiers were hurt today as violence on Cyprus took its ugliest turn since the three-year emergency began.

The women, both wives of British servicemen, were shot by terrorist gunmen in Famagusta. An immediate curfew was clamped on the eastern port.

The three soldiers were wounded in two bombing incidents in Limassol, southern Cyprus. A curfew was immediately placed on all Greek Cypriot residents between aged 16 and 26.

The woman was the second civilian killed by terrorists within 24 hours. A radio officer was shot to death Thursday as he walked down a shopping street in Larnaca.

ATHENS (Reuters) — Greek students shouting "Quit NATO" and "Give arms to EOKA" were dispersed by police today as they tried to stage a banned rally.

There were minor clashes but no casualties.

U.S. Controls Thor in U.K.

LONDON (UPI) — The United States has claimed complete control over Thor missiles sent to British bases and not just over their atomic warheads, official sources disclosed today.

It had been assumed previously that American control would be limited to the atomic warheads of missiles sent here under a mutual assistance agreement.

The U.S. stand now makes it clear that Britain will not be in a position to use the missiles without specific American consent.

was up all night, and the senior boys would have been if we had let them."

"I also want to congratulate the junior boys on their discipline in staying in their rooms while the fire was burning."

(He said later the juniors—total enrolment at the school is 172—remained in their dormitories in another building and went in shifts to windows overlooking the fire.)

He listed rooms in the various other buildings at the school that will be used as classrooms, saying "they are nearly ready for you."

A staff member was in Victoria at 9 a.m. today with a van to pick up replacements for the lost textbooks. Mr. Larsen said 50 desks ordered several weeks ago should be here shortly, and D. Mason Hurley of Shawigan Beach Hotel offered the school tables and chairs to assist in furnishing classrooms.

"We shall build a better block on a better site, and will continue to work to make our school the best in the country," he told the assembly. "The loss of the building will cause us difficulty, but we will manage if we all co-operate."

TIDYING UP

Considerable work must be done in tidying the grounds. Dead charred embers cover the ground hundreds of feet from the smouldering remains of the burning building, and machine tools carried from the threatened hobby shop had been hastily dropped on the quadrangle lawn.

Mr. Larsen said the school's own fire brigade of students went to work just as volunteers arrived, and pitched in immediately under direction of Fire Chief Gibson.

It burned fiercely for more than two hours, and firemen did not consider it safe to leave until 3.30 a.m.

BUSY TIME

The fire meant a busy night for the Shawigan firemen, since they had fought a bush fire on the Shawigan-Cobble Hill Road from 6 to 10.30 p.m. Thursday, and had barely finished cleaning and sorting equipment when they got the second alarm.

The fire came closely on the heels of the blaze that levelled Malahat Chalet Tuesday morning, and the Milnes Landing High School fire of Sept. 18.

School buildings were started in 1926, after the school had become established in more humble quarters at Shawigan Lake. It is operated as a non-profit-making organization.

GM

there had been a rash of wild-cat strikes.

Both Reuther and GM Vice-President Louis G. Seaton expressed hope that local grievances would be settled quickly so GM could get into full production of 1959 cars and trucks.

The UAW reached agreement with Ford Sept. 17 and with Chrysler Wednesday.

The new agreements give auto workers wage increases of 24 to 30 cents an hour during the next three years. Pensions are increased; severance pay provided for those whose jobs are moved or abolished, and layoff pay increased.

General Motors' average hourly wage is the highest in the industry—$2.62 compared with $2.52 at Ford and $2.33 at Chrysler. The latter company said its wage scale is lower because it hasn't as many skilled labor classifications, as the other two firms.

Prices Up To Record Again

Food, Services Hike Living Cost

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose to a new high during August with the consumer price index climbing by two-fifths of a point to a record 125.6 on Sept. 1 from 125.2 on August 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The second consecutive monthly rise resulted mainly from higher prices for streetcar and bus fares, hospital rates in Ontario and Quebec, price boosts for gasoline, eggs, bread, citrus fruits, canned juices, along with rents and home ownership costs.

These offset some declines such as those in clothing, 1958 passenger cars, meats, apples and fresh vegetables.

The prices yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, now stood at 2.3 points higher than a year previous.

While living costs have been rising, average wages paid also appear to have increased, though they may not have kept pace with the rise in costs.

WAGES DIP

Average wages in industrial plants have increased from $66.35 a week Jan. 1 to $70.76 June 1, though there was a slight dip from this high to $70.63 July 1.

While most parts of the consumer price index showed gains during August, the largest was in the miscellaneous column, entitled other commodities and services, which rose to a record 131.5 Sept. 1 from 130.6 Aug. 1.

The food column also edged ahead by three-tenths of a point to a near-record 122.9.

Also up three-tenths to a record 139.4 was the shelter column, reflecting higher costs for rents and prices for new homes.

The clothing column dropped one-tenth of a point to 109.5.
